I. KHOJALY GENOCIDE AS A CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY

Khojaly is a town in the Nagorno-Karabakh region of the Republic of Azerbaijan with a total area of 0.94 sq.km, which was home to a population of 7,000 before the conflict. Harboring the only airport in the area, Khojaly was a strategically important center of communication. On the night of February 25-26, Khojaly suffered massive artillery bombardment from the positions occupied by the Armenian forces. Soon after the intensive shelling, the Armenian Armed Forces, including the irregular armed bands and terrorist groups, and with the direct participation of 366th Motorized Infantry Regiment of the former USSR, seized the town. Under heavy conditions of frosty weather, several thousands of civilian residents fled the town in the dark and found refuge in nearby forests and mountain terrains, only to be eventually trapped and ambushed by Armenian forces and militia. As a result, 613 civilians perished, including 106 women and 63 children. 1,275 Khojaly residents were taken hostage, while 150 people to this day remain unaccounted for. In the course of the massacre, 487 inhabitants of Khojaly were severely dismembered, including 76 children. 6 families were completely wiped out, 26 children lost both parents and 130 children lost one of their parents. 56 of those who were killed were murdered with particular cruelty: most were slaughtered, some were burned alive, beheaded, some were mutilated, and others were scalped.

The responsibility of the Republic of Armenia, its political and military leadership as well as subordinate local armed groups for the crimes committed in Khojaly is confirmed by numerous facts, including investigative records, testimonies of the eyewitnesses, evidences from international media sources, and reports of intergovernmental and non-governmental organizations.

In its judgement of April 22, 2010, the European Court of Human Rights arrived at an important conclusion with respect to the crime committed in Khojaly, qualifying the behaviour of those carrying out the incursion as "acts of particular gravity which may amount to war crimes or crimes against humanity". The European Court made in this regard the following observation, which leaves no doubt as to the question of qualification of the crime and ensuing responsibility for it:

"It appears that the reports available from independent sources indicate that at the time of the capture of Khojaly on the night of 25-26 February 1992 hundreds of civilians of Azerbaijani ethnic origin were reportedly killed, wounded or taken hostage, during their attempt to flee the captured town, by Armenian fighters attacking the town".¹

In her letter dated March 24, 1997 addressed to the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Armenia, the Executive Director of the Human Rights Watch/ Helsinki responded as follows to attempts by the Armenian propaganda to obfuscate this human rights organization with its fabrications:

"Our research and that of the Memorial Human Rights Centre found that the retreating militia fled Khojaly along with some of the large groups of fleeing civilians. Our report noted that by remaining armed and in uniform, the Azerbaijani militia may be considered as combatants and thus endangered fleeing civilians, even if their intent had been to protect them. Yet we place direct responsibility for the civilian deaths with Karabakh Armenian forces. Indeed, neither our report nor that of Memorial includes any evidence to support the argument that Azerbaijani forces obstructed the flight of, or fired on Azeri civilians".²

According to the Armenian author Markar Melkonian, who dedicated his book to his brother, the well-known international terrorist Monte Melkonian, who personally took part in the assault on Khojaly, the town "had been a strategic goal, but it had also been an act of revenge".³ Melkonian particularly mentions the role of the fighters of the two Armenian military detachments "Arabo" and "Aramo" and describes in detail how they butchered the peaceful inhabitants of Khojaly. Thus, as he puts it, some inhabitants of the town had almost made it to safety, after fleeing for nearly six miles, when "[Armenian] soldiers had chased them down". The soldiers, in his words, "unsheathed the knives they had carried on their hips for so long, and began stabbing".⁴

It should be particularly noted that the Khojaly events took place in a period when the incumbent president Serzh Sargsyan of the Republic of Armenia served as the head of the illegal military structures in the occupied Azerbaijani territories and, accordingly, his recollections constitute one of the most important sources of evidence. The following words by S.Sargsyan leave no doubt as to the question of the perpetrator of the crime in Khojaly:

"Before Khojaly, the Azerbaijanis thought that they were joking with us, they thought that the Armenians were people who could not raise their hand against the civilian population. We were able to break that [stereotype]. And that's what happened."⁵

There are sufficient grounds to conclude that the Government of the Republic of Armenia and subordinate forces, for which it is liable under international law, are responsible for serious violations of international humanitarian and human rights law amounting to crimes under international law. The violations of the rules of war by the Armenian side include, inter alia, indiscriminate attacks, including the killing of civilians, the taking and holding of hostages, and the mistreatment and summary execution of prisoners of war and hostages.⁶

The following elements of the crime of genocide, as defined under international law, are present with regard to the attacks on civilians in Khojaly: the actus reus consisting of killing and causing serious bodily or mental harm; the existence of a protected group being targeted by the authors of the criminal conduct; and the specific genocidal intent to annihilate, in whole or in part, a group distinguished on racial, ethnic, national or religious grounds. According to the findings of the investigation, the following requirements are met for the purpose of sustaining the genocidal charges with regard to the crime committed in Khojaly: the clear and convincing proof of the intent to destroy the group in whole or in part; the fact that the destruction that took place in Khojaly was "significant" enough to affect the defined group as a whole; and the crime was committed within a specific geographic locality.

Offences committed during the conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan entail State responsibility and individual criminal responsibility under international law.

The key provisions of international responsibility are laid down in the articles on State responsibility adopted by the United Nations International Law Commission on 9 August 2001⁷ and commended to States by the General Assembly on 12 December 2001.⁸ According to article 1, "every internationally wrongful act of a State entails the international responsibility of that State", while article 2 provides that "there is an internationally wrongful act of a State when conduct consisting of an action or omission (a) is attributable to the State under international law; and (b) constitutes a breach of an international obligation of the State".

Article 4 (1) of the articles on State responsibility addresses the question of the attribution of conduct to a State, and declares that:

The conduct of any State organ shall be considered an act of that State under international law, whether the organ exercises legislative, executive, judicial or any other functions, whatever position it holds in the organization of the State, and whatever its character as an organ of the central government or of a territorial unit of the State.

This principle, which is one of long standing in international law,⁹ was underlined by the International Court of Justice in the LaGrand case,¹⁰ in which the Court declared that "the international responsibility of a State is engaged by the action of the competent organ and authorities acting in that State, whatever they may be" and reiterated in the case concerning the application of the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide,¹¹ in which the Court noted that it was:

One of the cornerstones of the law of State responsibility, that the conduct of any State organ is to be considered an act of the State under international law, and therefore gives rise to the responsibility of the State if it constitutes a breach of an obligation of the State.

Comment 6 to article 4 of the articles on State responsibility underlines the broad nature of this principle and emphasizes that the reference to State organs in this provision:

"Is not limited to the organs of central government, to officials at high level or to persons with responsibility for the external relations of the State. It extends to organs of government of whatever kind or classification, exercising whatever functions, and at whatever level in the hierarchy, including those at provincial or even local level”.¹²

Similarly, article 5 provides that the conduct of a person or entity which is not an organ of the State under article 4 but which is empowered by the law of that State to exercise elements of governmental authority shall be considered as an act of the State under international law, provided that the person or entity in question was acting in that capacity in the instance in question. Accordingly, activities by armed units of the State, including those empowered so to act, will engage the responsibility of the State. Thus Armenia is responsible internationally for actions (and omissions) of its armed forces in their activities in Azerbaijan.

A key element of State responsibility, and one of particular significance for the present purposes, is the rule enshrined in article 8:

The conduct of a person or group of persons shall be considered an act of a State under international law if the person or group of persons is in fact acting on the instructions of, or under the direction or control of, that State in carrying out the conduct.

This provision essentially covers two situations, first, where persons act directly under the instructions of State authorities and, second, where persons are acting under State "direction or control". The latter point is critical. It means that States cannot avoid responsibility for the acts of secessionist entities where in truth it is the State that is controlling the activities of the body in question. The difference between the two situations enumerated in article 8 is the level of control exercised. In the former case, the persons concerned are in effect part of the apparatus of the State insofar as the particular situation is concerned. In the latter case, the power of the State is rather more diffuse.

Accordingly, the conclusion must be that, due to its initial and continuing aggression against Azerbaijan and persisting occupation of that State's territory, the Republic of Armenia bears full international responsibility for the breaches of international law.

The Republic of Armenia's international responsibility, which is incurred by its internationally wrongful acts, involves legal consequences manifested in the obligation to cease such acts, to offer appropriate assurances and guarantees that they will not recur and to provide full reparation for injury in the form of restitution, compensation and satisfaction, either singly or in combination.¹³

It is essential to note that the crime committed in the town of Khojaly should be seen as a serious breach of obligations under peremptory norms (jus cogens) of general international law. The obligations under such norms arise from those substantive rules of conduct that prohibit what has come to be seen as intolerable because of the threat it presents to the survival of States and their peoples and the most basic human values.¹⁴ Among these prohibitions, it is generally agreed that the prohibitions of aggression, the establishment or maintenance by force of colonial domination, genocide, slavery, racial discrimination, crimes against humanity and torture are to be regarded as peremptory.¹⁵ There can be no doubt that ¹⁴ See A/56/10, comment 3 to article 40 of the articles on State responsibility.

¹⁵ Ibid., comment 5 to article 26 and comments 1-9 to article 40 of the articles on State responsibility.

Armenia takes full international responsibility for a violation of a number of such prohibitions, as manifested in particular in the criminal acts committed against the civilians and defenders of the town of Khojaly.

Serious breaches of obligations under peremptory norms of general international law give rise to additional consequences affecting not only the State bearing the responsibility, but also all other States. As stated in the International Law Commission commentary to the articles on State responsibility, every State, by virtue of its membership in the international community, has a legal interest in the protection of certain basic rights and the fulfilment of certain essential obligations.¹⁶ A significant role in securing recognition of this principle was played by the International Court of Justice in the Barcelona Traction case,¹⁷ in which the Court identified the existence of a special category of obligations — obligations towards the international community as a whole. According to the Court, "By their very nature the former [the obligations of a State towards the international community as a whole] are the concern of all States. In view of the importance of the rights involved, all States can be held to have a legal interest in their protection; they are obligations erga omnes". In later cases, the International Court has reaffirmed this idea.¹⁸

In as much as all States have a legal interest, particular consequences of a serious breach of an obligation under peremptory norms of general international law include, inter alia, duties of States to cooperate in order to bring to an end such breaches by lawful means and not to recognize as lawful a situation created by a serious breach, nor render aid or assistance in maintaining that situation.¹⁹

Alongside the Republic of Armenia's responsibility as a State for internationally wrongful acts, under the customary and treaty norms of international criminal law, certain acts perpetrated in the context of an armed conflict, including those in the town of Khojaly, are viewed as international criminal offences and responsibility for them is borne on an individual basis by those who participated in the said acts, their accomplices and accessories. It is well known that both the present and former presidents of Armenia, Serzh Sargsyan and Robert Kocharian, together with many other high-ranking political and military officials of that State, including current minister of defence, Seyran Oghanyan, and leaders of the separatist regime set up by Armenia in the occupied territory of Azerbaijan, personally participated in seizing Azerbaijani lands and in the reprisals against Azerbaijani civilians and militaries. It is clear that, given the scale and gravity of the offences that they committed, the criminal prosecution of these persons would be an inevitable consequence of their crimes.

It is obvious that impunity still enjoyed by the perpetrators of the crimes continues to impede progress in achieving the long-awaited peace and reconciliation between Armenia and Azerbaijan. Therefore, the establishment of truth in respect to gross violations of international humanitarian and human rights law committed during the conflict, the provision of adequate and effective reparations to victims and the need for institutional actions to prevent the repetition of such violations are all necessary adjuncts to true conflict resolution. Consequently, ending impunity is essential not only for the purposes of identifying the responsibility of parties to the conflict and individual perpetrators, the achievement of which is undoubtedly imperative per se, but also for ensuring sustainable peace, truth, reconciliation, the rights and interests of victims and the well-being of society at large.

II. REPORTS BY INTERNATIONAL NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS

The Memorial Human Rights Centre (Moscow, Russian Federation)

Excerpts from the Report on massive violations of human rights committed in Khojaly on the night of 25-26 February 1992²⁰

(March, 1992)

This report deals with the events of late February – March 1992 in Nagorno Karabakh connected with the storming and occupation of the settlement of Khojaly by armed Armenian units – an event which had a huge influence in the military, political and moral aspects on the situation in Azerbaijan.²¹

The report makes use of material gathered in 1991-1992 by observers of the Memorial society who were in the conflict zone, mass media reports, materials placed at the disposal of Memorial by official representatives of the conflicting parties, as well as depositions by independent witnesses.

The Memorial society observers were in Nagorno Karabakh from 7 March to 5 April 1992 gathering information on both sides of the front: they recorded interviews with the victims of Khojaly (geographical names are given as in the 1988 maps), spoke with officials in Baku, Stepankert, Aghdam, received information from the Prosecutor's Office and the Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Republic of Azerbaijan, interviewed doctors in hospitals in Baku and Stepanakert, and also in the military medical train in Aghdam (there are officially certified extracts from the medical records of some of the wounded and other victims), spoke with hostages and prisoners (both on the Armenian and on the Azerbaijani side), with members of the armed units, including with those who took part in the storming of Khojaly, carried out an on-site visual inspection in the vicinity of the towns of Khojaly, Aghdam and Askeran...

Events preceding the storming of Khojaly

Khojaly was blockaded by Armenian armed units from autumn 1991. There was no electricity in Khojaly from January 1992. Some of the inhabitants left the blockaded town. The storming of Khojaly by armed Armenian units began on 25 February 1992.

The assault on Khojaly

When Khojaly was stormed there were between 2000-4000 inhabitants there, including several hundred defenders of the town. Khojaly was defended by volunteer militia, members of the special police squad of the Ministry of Internal Affairs of the Republic of Azerbaijan and soldiers of the National Army of Azerbaijan. According to information received from both sides there were in the town three pieces of armoured military hardware as well as an Alazan rocket launcher. Men involved in the storming of Khojaly and Nagorno Karabakh officials assert that there were also two Grad multiple rocket launcher systems in Khojaly.

The attackers

Memorial observers did not manage to obtain any information about who specifically gave the order to storm Khojaly or who was in charge of the operation.

Practically all refugees from Khojaly assert that servicemen of the 366th regiment took part in the assault on Khojaly and that some of them entered the town.

According to information received from the Armenian side, fighting vehicles of the 366th regiment and their crews took part in the assault on the town, shelling it but not entering the town itself. The Armenian side asserts that the participation of servicemen in military actions was not authorized by a written order from the regiment command.

How the assault proceeded

Artillery shelling of Khojaly began around 23:00 on the night of 25 February. The garrison, lying deep in a residential area, was destroyed first of all, as were defence outposts. Infantry detachments entered the town between 01:00 and 04:00 on 26 February.

Reports by members of Armenian armed units say that armed resistance by the Khojaly garrison as a whole was soon broken. The destruction in Khojaly confirms there was artillery shelling but is not typical of the destruction and damage caused by stubborn street fighting.

The last pocket of resistance was quashed by 07:00.

Some of the population started to leave Khojaly shortly after the assault began, trying to leave in the direction of Aghdam. There were armed people from the town garrison in some of the groups fleeing.

People left in two directions:

1. From the eastern edge of the town to the north-east along the riverbed, leaving Askeran on the left;
2. From the northern edge of the town to the north-east, leaving Askeran on the right.

Thus the majority of the civilian population left Khojaly and roughly 200-300 people remained there hiding in their homes and cellars.

The “free corridor” for the population to leave

“NKR” officials assert that a “free corridor” was left for the civilian population to leave Khojaly. It began at the eastern edge of the town, continued along the riverbed and went north-east, leading towards Aghdam and leaving Askeran on the left. The corridor was 100-200 metres wide and up to 300 metres wide in some places. The Armenian armed units promised not to open fire on civilians and unarmed members of military units who were inside that “corridor”.

“NKR” officials and those who took part in the assault say that at the start of it the population of Khojaly was informed of this “corridor” through loudspeakers set up on armoured personnel carriers. But those who announced this information did not rule out that a large part of the population of Khojaly might not have heard the announcements about the “free corridor” because of the shooting and the low power of the loudspeakers.

“NKR” officials also reported that leaflets were dropped from helicopters on Khojaly a few days before the assault calling on the population of Khojaly to use the “free corridor”. But Memorial observers were not offered a single such leaflet by way of confirmation of that. Neither did Memorial observers find any traces of such leaflets in Khojaly. The refugees from Khojaly interviewed said that they had not heard anything about such leaflets.

Memorial observers interviewed in Aghdam and Baku 60 people who had fled from Khojaly during the assault. Only one of those interviewed said that he knew there was a “free corridor”. None of the detained inhabitants of Khojaly with whom Memorial observers spoke in the presence of Deputy R. Ayrikyan in Stepanakert detention centre (the conversation was filmed by an Armenian television cameraman) had heard about the “free corridor” either.

The fate of Khojaly inhabitants

Inhabitants rushed out of the town in a panic soon after the assault began. People did not manage to take the most essential things with them – many of those who fled were dressed lightly (which caused them to suffer frostbite to various degrees) and many of the refugees interviewed in Baku and Aghdam did not even have their documents.

People streamed out of the town along the riverbed. There were armed people from the town garrison in some groups of refugees. These groups of refugees were shot at and many people died as a result. The refugees who survived scattered. Those fleeing stumbled into Armenian outposts and were shot at. Some of the refugees managed, nevertheless, to reach Aghdam. Some, mainly women and children (it is not possible to ascertain the exact number) froze to death while wandering through the mountains. Others, according to the depositions of those who made it to Aghdam, were taken prisoner at the villages of Pirjamal and Nakhichevanik. Inhabitants of Khojaly who already were exchanged testify that some of those taken captive were executed.

The killing field where the refugees met their end, as well as the bodies of those killed, were filmed on video as Azerbaijani sub-units were carrying out a mission to ferry the corpses by helicopter to Aghdam. The pictures show that the bodies of those killed were scattered over a large area. The major part of the corpses filmed at the killing field were those of women and the elderly, and there were also children amongst those killed. At the same time, there were also people in uniform amongst those killed. The video showed several dozen corpses in all.

It can be supposed that it might have taken roughly seven or eight hours for the refugees from Khojaly to reach the killing field, taking into account the roughness of the terrain and the physical capabilities of most of the people. Thus the refugees were shot at dawn.

Around 200 bodies were taken to Aghdam over four days. Several dozen corpses bore signs of mutilation. Doctors working in the medical train in Aghdam recorded at least four scalped bodies and one decapitated corpse. A state forensic medical examination was carried out on 181 bodies in Aghdam (130 male and 51 female, including 13 children). The pathologists conclude that in 151 people the cause of death was bullet wounds, in 20 – missile wounds and in 10 – blows by a blunt object. Moreover, a forensic medical examination was carried out in Baku on a number of corpses brought from the vicinity of Khojaly. “NKR” officials told Memorial observers that “120-130 corpses were taken to Aghdam with their permission”. Ninety-six bodies were buried in Aghdam. The bodies of the others were taken to relatives.

Five hundred and ninety-eight wounded and frostbite victims (moreover, the latter were in the majority) are recorded in the log of the medical train in the town of Aghdam where practically all the victims and defenders of Khojaly were seen to. The case of a person being scalped alive is also recorded there.

In reckoning the general number of inhabitants of Khojaly who died, one should take into account the fact that people did not just die when the refugees were shot (some of the bodies of those who died in this manner were taken to Aghdam) but that they also froze to death as they tried to make their way through the mountains. Memorial observers spoke to a woman who lost three of her children that way. It is not possible to ascertain precisely the number of inhabitants of Khojaly who froze to death.

Around 300 civilians, including 86 Meskhetian Turks, remained in Khojaly after it was taken by Armenian armed units.

According to statements by inhabitants, by those who took part in the assault and representatives of the mass media who were in the vicinity of Khojaly at that time, all the remaining inhabitants were taken captive and over three days were taken to Stepanakert (the detention centre and transport column building), the preventive-detention cell in the village of Krasniy and the solitary confinement block in the town of Askeran.

There are testimonies from inhabitants of Khojaly that women and children, and men as well, were held as a “means of barter”. These are confirmed by the personal observations of Memorial observers: as of 13 March inhabitants of Khojaly were still being held in Askeran as hostages, including women and young girls. There is reliable evidence that women were being forcibly held in Askeran after that date too.

Conditions in which captive inhabitants and defenders of Khojaly were held

An inspection by Memorial observers of the detention centre of the town of Stepanakert where captive inhabitants of Khojaly and captive members of the Azerbaijani armed units are being held (they are all deemed to be “hostages” in the conflict zone) ascertained that the conditions in which they are being held are extremely unsatisfactory. The appearance of the Azerbaijanis being held in the detention centre showed that they receive very little food and they manifest clear signs of emaciation. Verbal information was received that the prisoners were beaten regularly. It should also be noted that the observers were given the opportunity to inspect only some of the prisoners.

The chief of the detention centre, Major Khachaturyan, forbade even brief one-to-one conversations with the prisoners. It was only thanks to chance that such a conversation was possible.

According to the testimonies of the inhabitants of Khojaly who were captured and then exchanged and also of defenders of Khojaly, men were subjected to beatings. Most of the testimonies say that women and children were not beaten, unlike the men. However, there is evidence of rape, including of minors, confirmed by doctors of Baku and Aghdam.

The fate of the property of the inhabitants of Khojaly

The inhabitants of Khojaly who fled did not have the opportunity to take with them even the basic minimum of their belongings. Those inhabitants of Khojaly who were taken out of the town by members of Armenian armed units were not given the opportunity to gather up even part of their belongings. Memorial observers witnessed active and unbridled looting in the captured town. Belongings which were left behind were carried away by inhabitants of Stepanakert and neighbouring settlements. The surnames of the new owners were written on the gates of many houses.

Assessment of the information received

There was mass violence inflicted upon the civilians of Khojaly during the military operation to take this town.

The declared provision of a “free corridor” to evacuate the population from Khojaly may be regarded as either deliberate actions by “NKR” officials to “cleanse” the town of its inhabitants or as the acknowledgement by the “NKR” authorities that they are not capable of guaranteeing on the territory under their control the human rights of civilians regardless of nationality.

The mass murder of civilians in the “free corridor” zone and adjacent territory cannot be justified under any circumstances.

The capture and detention of civilians of Khojaly as “hostages”, including women, clearly contradicts the declared readiness of the “NKR” authorities to freely hand over to the Azerbaijani side all Khojaly civilians. The conditions in which the “hostages” were held were extremely unsatisfactory and there was violent treatment of the detained inhabitants of Khojaly.

The inhabitants of Khojaly were illegally deprived of their property which was appropriated by inhabitants of Stepanakert and the surrounding settlements. The “NKR” authorities have legalized this appropriation of other people’s property, issuing warrants for occupying the houses belonging to the inhabitants of Khojaly who had fled or been deported.

Servicemen of the 366th motorized rifle regiment belonging to troops of the Commonwealth of Independent States took part in the assault on Khojaly. In the opinion of the Memorial human rights centre a special investigation is required into the facts of the involvement of CIS servicemen in the military operations and combat actions in the conflict region, and also into the facts of the transfer of military property to units of the conflicting parties.

The Memorial human rights centre states that the actions by the Armenian units of Nagorno Karabakh towards the civilians of Khojaly during the assault on the town are a gross violation of the Geneva Convention and also of the following articles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (adopted by the UN General Assembly on 10 December 1948):

- Article 2 proclaims that “everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this Declaration without distinction of any kind, such as ... language, religion ... national ... origin ...or other status”;
- Article 3 recognizes that everyone has the right to life, liberty and security of person;
- Article 5 stipulates that no one shall be subjected to cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment;
- Article 9 stipulates that no one shall be subjected to arbitrary arrest, detention or exile;
- Article 17 proclaims the right of everyone to own property and states that no one shall be arbitrarily deprived of his property.

The actions by the armed units are a most gross violation of the Declaration on the Protection of Women and Children in Emergency and Armed Conflict (proclaimed by the UN General Assembly on 14 December 1974). It stipulates:

“Women and children belonging to the civilian population and finding themselves in circumstances of emergency and armed conflict in the struggle for peace, self-determination, national liberation and independence, or who live in occupied territories, shall not be deprived of shelter, food, medical aid or other inalienable rights, in accordance with the provisions of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, the Declaration of the Rights of the Child or other instruments of international law.”

Excerpts from the Report
“Bloodshed in Caucasus: Escalation of the Armed Conflict in Nagorno Karabakh”²²

(September, 1992)

On the night of February 25-26 Armenian forces seized the Azerbaijani town of Khojaly, located about ten miles from Stepanakert. As some of its residents, accompanied by retreating Azerbaijani militia and self-defense forces, fled Khojaly seeking to cross the border to reach Agdam, they approached Armenian military posts and were fired upon. The Azerbaijani government is currently conducting two investigations of the events, one carried out by a special parliamentary commission and another by the Procuracy. In addition, the Human Rights Center of Memorial, a prominent Russian nongovernmental organization, conducted an independent investigation of the incident in March 1992.²³

According to Azerbaijani Procuracy officials, before the escalation of the conflict in Nagorno Karabakh, Khojaly had a population of about 6,000; its precise population in February is unknown since some residents may have fled earlier.²⁴ In 1988 Khojaly had only 2,000 residents and had the status of a village; its numbers grew as Azerbaijani refugees from Armenia were resettled there. The Azerbaijani government had also settled in Khojaly several hundred Meskhetian Turks fleeing persecution in General Asia. Finally, Azerbaijanis flocked there from other parts of Nagorno Karabakh, notably from Stepanakert, and continued to do so after Armenian forces overran their villages in the winter of 1991-92. It received the status of town from the Azerbaijani government only in December 1991, and, after Shusha, was the second most populous Azerbaijani Nagorno Karabakh.²⁵

According to nearly all of the twenty-two Azerbaijani witnesses of the Khojaly events interviewed by Helsinki Watch, the village had been shelled almost on a daily basis during the winter of 1991-92, and people had grown accustomed to spending nights in basements.

The attack on Khojaly began about 11:00 P.M.²⁶ on February 25, with heavy shelling and artillery fire. Hassan Alahierov, a construction worker, told Helsinki Watch,

We were used to [hearing] shooting, but usually with machine guns. I was sleeping on the balcony and my son came to me and said that this was a different noise. I stood up and ... saw BMPs [armed personnel carriers] and tanks were shooting from all directions. ... When I went out I saw bombs falling everywhere.

²⁵ For a description of life in Khojaly before the February 25 attack, see Thomas Goltz, “A Town Betrayed: The Killing Ground in Karabakh,” in The Washington Post, March 8, 1992, p.C1

²⁶ According to S.A., a member of the OMON unit, shelling of the airport began at 5:00 P.M.

Several refugees reported that they saw houses burning during the attack on Khojaly or while they were fleeing the village. Juleka Dunemalieva (whose sister died of exposure during their flight from Khojaly) said that at about midnight or 1:00 A.M. she saw neighborhood where Meskhetian Turks lived go up in flames: “Meskhetians lived in our neighborhood in Finnish-style cottages. When their houses were burned we got out right away.”

Most Khojaly residents remained in the town until about 3:00 A.M., some staying in basements in private homes. In addition, about 300 residents reportedly took shelter in the basement of one school. Some reported that they decided to leave at 3:00 A.M. because the self-defense forces were running through the streets shouting instructions to people to run away.

Residents fled the town in separate groups, amid chaos and panic, most of them without any belongings or clothes for the cold weather. As a result, hundreds of people suffered – and some died – from severe frostbite.

The majority of Khojaly residents went along a route that took them across a shallow river, through the mountains, and, by about dawn, towards an open field near the village of Nakhichevanik, controlled then by Armenians. It was here that the most intense shooting took place. Other people fled along different routes that took them directly by Shelli, an Azerbaijani village near Agdam. A number of Khojaly survivors wandered through the forest for several days before finding their way to Agdam’s environs.

Firing on Civilians

Witnesses to and victims of the shooting at Nakhichevanik told Helsinki Watch of varying numbers of people who fell under fire, and described how they received their gunshot wounds.

Thirty-three-year-old Nigar Azizova, who worked in a vegetable store, told Helsinki Watch that when the crowd started falling over bodies, they turned back and fled in different directions.

The crowd was about sixty meters long. I was in the middle, and people in the front were mostly killed. At Nakhichevanik we saw that people in front were falling. They shouted and fell. I recognized their faces. I could see their faces as we stepped over them. We covered the children’s eyes so they wouldn’t see.

Mrs. Azizova listed eight people whose bodies she had to step over, and claimed that they had no guns: Elshan Abushov, Zelif Alekhpeliev, Tevagul Alekhpelieva, Sakhvet Alekhpeliev (who reportedly was nine years old), Elmar Abdulev, Etibar Abushov, and Habib Abushov.

A young Azerbaijani woman who was eventually taken hostage told Helsinki Watch, “It was a cultivated field. We approached it and saw that they began to shoot. I must have seen sixty people dead in the field. Those who were running away with me fell and died.”

Hassan Alahierov said: “First we ran to Nakhichevanik, but when they began shooting people we ran to the other side. There was a BMP standing on the road – I didn’t see it, I just saw the shells.” Alahierov’s eighteen-year-old daughter, who got separated from her father, said she saw the tank: “When the tank began to shoot we ran in all directions. I saw corpses scattered, and saw all the people surrounding them fall.”

Hijran Alekpera reported that:

By the time we got to Nakhichevanik it was 9:00 A.M. There was a field and there were many people who had been killed. There were maybe one hundred. I didn't try to count. I was wounded on this field. A bullet hit me in the belly. I could see where they were shooting from. I saw other bodies in the field. They were newly killed – they hadn't changed color.

Fifty-one-year-old Balaoglan Allakhiarov said:

We got Nakhichevanik at 8:00 A.M., and were in the middle of the field when they began to fire. They were shooting only from one direction – the forest. Then we ran off the field toward a canyon, where my wife and daughter-in-law were shot. They were shot from about twenty meters. My daughter-in-law was struck three times – through the skull, in her stomach and in her leg. My wife was hit from behind. [The Armenians] took off their rings.

At about 8:00 A.M. Nazile Khemetova received a gunshot wound in her left leg:

We were all crawling. Whoever stood up got wounded. I stood up to rest my legs and was wounded. I saw many people get shot, and we had to leave them as we crawled along. After I was wounded I didn't see many people pass me; they hid in the forest. I stayed in the snow until 7:00 P.M. Members of the Popular Front came and helped me escape.

Beginning February 27, Azerbaijani helicopters brought in personnel who attempted to collect bodies and assist the wounded. Some of the rescue team were wearing camouflage clothing, and they were constantly shot at by Armenian forces.²⁷ Members of the first rescue group, who were accompanied by a French journalist, reported that some of the corpses had been scalped or otherwise mutilated. One member of the group videotaped the mission.

Death Toll

There are still no definitive figures on the number of civilians who were shot while fleeing Khojaly. According to Aiden Rasulov, more than 300 bodies showing evidence of a violent death were submitted for forensic examination. At the time of Helsinki Watch's visit to Baky, the results of these examinations had not been completed, and the investigative team was in the process of tracking down the corpses of Khojaly victims that had been removed from Agdam by family members in the first days after the tragedy. Earlier figures made available by Azerbaijan and published by the Memorial group put the number of deaths resulting from gunshot, shrapnel, or other wounds at 181,²⁸ (130 men and fifty-one women, including thirteen children). In addition, an undetermined number died of frostbite. Namig Aliev, who heads the Department on Questions of Law and Order and Defense of the Azerbaijani Parliament and who is part of the parliamentary group investigating the Khojaly events, told Helsinki Watch in April that 213 Khojaly victims were buried in Agdam. Aliev also reported that of those bodies submitted for forensic examination, thirty-three had been scalped, had body parts removed, or had been otherwise mutilated. One hundred eighty individuals from Khojaly are reported to be missing.

²⁷ See below, under “Abuse of Medical Personnel and Transport.”

²⁸ See Appendix II for a list of these victims.

As noted in Appendix V to this report, the civilian population and individual civilians are not legitimate objects of attack in any armed conflict. The contending parties accordingly must distinguish at all times between civilians and combatants and direct their attack only against the latter.

In particular, the party must suspend an attack if it becomes apparent that the attack may be expected to cause civilian casualties that are excessive in relation to the concrete and direct military advantage anticipated.

The circumstances surrounding the attack at Nakhichevanik on those fleeing Khojaly indicate that Armenian forces and troops of the 366th CIS regiment²⁹ deliberately disregarded this customary law restraint on attacks. Nagorno Karabakh officials and fighters clearly expected the inhabitants of Khojaly to flee since they claim to have informed the town that a corridor would be left open to allow for their safe passage. No witnesses interviewed by Helsinki Watch, however, said that they knew beforehand of such a corridor. In addition, although witnesses and victims gave varying testimony on the precise time the shooting began at Nakhichevanik, they all indicated that there was sufficient light to allow for reasonable visibility and, thus, for the attackers to distinguish unarmed civilians from those persons who were armed and/or using weapons. Further, despite conflicting testimony about the direction from which the fire was coming, the evidence suggests that the attackers indiscriminately directed their fire at all fleeing persons. Under these circumstances, the killing of fleeing combatants could not justify the foreseeable larger number of civilian casualties.

“The former Soviet Union: Azerbaijan”³⁰

(HRW World Report, 1993)

...During the winter of 1992, Armenian forces went on the offensive, forcing almost the entire Azerbaijani population of the enclave to flee, and committing unconscionable acts of violence against civilians as they fled. The most notorious of these attacks occurred on February 25 in the village of Khojaly. A large column of residents, accompanied by a few dozen retreating fighters, fled the city as it fell to Armenian forces. They came across an Armenian military post and were cruelly fired upon. At least 161 civilians are known to have been murdered in this incident, although Azerbaijani officials estimate that about 800 perished. Armenian forces killed unarmed civilians and soldiers who were hors de combat, and looted and sometimes burned homes...

²⁹ The number of servicemen in the 366th who participated in the massacre of civilians is still unknown. The Azerbaijani Procuracy's investigative team sent a delegation to Tbilisi, where the 366th was relocated after it withdrew from Stepanakert, to inquire how many men from the regiment had been killed, wounded, and missing during their service in Nagorno Karabakh. According to Aiden Rasulov, military officials refused to meet with the investigative team, claiming that they are answerable only to Moscow. As of April, the investigative team had not asked for an accounting from Moscow military authorities.

Dear Mr. Arzumanyan,

As Executive Director of Human Rights Watch/Helsinki (formerly Helsinki Watch), I wish to respond to the March 3 Ministry of Foreign Affairs statement regarding the 1992 slaughter of Azeri civilians in the town of Khojaly in Nagorno Karabakh. In it, the Ministry argues that the Popular Front of Azerbaijan was responsible for the civilian deaths, supporting this argument by referring to an interview with former President Ayaz Mutalibov and, incredibly, to a 1992 report by our organization... Neither our overview and version of the events, nor the individual interviews with Azeri refugees from Khojaly and other villages in Nagorno Karabakh published in the report could possibly support the notion that Azerbaijani forces wilfully prevented the evacuation of civilians or that they shot their own citizens. We are deeply distressed that the Ministry has, wittingly or unwittingly, linked our report to views which we reject and which our report does not reflect...

Yours sincerely,

It states, “The massacre of Khojaly, which is one of the most violent pages of contemporary history, will be the starting point for the revival of the reflection on the legal and diplomatic aspects of the international protection of human rights in the context of war.” The organization argues that Khojaly is the Srebrenica of the Caucasus and must be studied and analyzed in order to understand and prevent human rights abuses in the international community for practical and legal reasons.

Nagorno-Karabakh victims buried in Azerbaijani town. Refugees claim hundreds died in Armenian attack

By Thomas Goltz

Officials of the main mosque in this town just east of the embattled enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh said they buried 27 bodies today, brought from an Azerbaijani town inside the enclave that was captured Wednesday by Armenian militiamen.

Refugees fleeing the fighting in Khojaly, a town of 6,000 northeast of the enclave's capital, Stepanakert, claimed that up to 500 people, including women and children, were killed in the attack. No independent estimate of deaths was available here. The Agdam mosque's director, Said Sadikov Muan, said refugees from Khojaly had registered the names of 477 victims with his mosque since Wednesday.

Officials in Baku, the capital of Azerbaijan, estimated the deaths in Khojaly at 100, while Armenian officials in their capital, Yerevan, said only two Azerbaijanis were killed in the attack.

Of seven bodies seen here today, two were children and three were women, one shot through the chest at what appeared to be close range. Another 120 refugees being treated at Agdam's hospital include many with multiple stab wounds.

The Armenians who attacked Khojaly Tuesday night "were shooting, shooting, shooting", said Raisa Aslanova, who reached Agdam Wednesday night. She said her husband and a son-in-law were killed and her daughter was missing.

Among the refugees who fled here over the mountains from Nagorno-Karabakh were two Turkmen soldiers from former Soviet Interior Ministry forces who had taken refuge in Khojaly after deserting from their unit last Friday because, they said, Armenian non-commissioned officers had beaten them "for being Muslims".

The two deserters claimed their former unit, the 366th Division, was supporting the Armenian militiamen who captured Khojaly. They said they tried to help women and children escape. "We were bringing a group through the mountains when the Armenians found us and opened fire", said Agamehmet Mutif, one of the deserters. "Twelve were killed".

Elif Kaban, a Reuter correspondent in Agdam, reported that after a massacre on Wednesday, Azeris were burying scores of people who died when Armenians over ran the town of Khojaly, the second-biggest Azeri settlement in the area. Armenian soldiers massacre hundreds of fleeing families

By Thomas Goltz

Survivors reported that Armenian soldiers shot and bayoneted more than 450 Azeris, many of them women and children. Hundreds, possibly thousands, were missing and feared dead.

The attackers killed most of the soldiers and volunteers defending the women and children. They then turned their guns on the terrified refugees. The few survivors later described what happened: "That's when the real slaughter began", said Azer Hajiev, one of three soldiers to survive. "The Armenians just shot and shot. And then they came in and started carving up people with their bayonets and knives".

"They were shooting, shooting, shooting", echoed Rasia Aslanova, who arrived in Agdam with other women and children who made their way through Armenian lines. She said her husband, Kayun, and a son-in-law were massacred in front of her. Her daughter was still missing. One boy who arrived in Agdam had an ear sliced off.

The survivors said 2000 others, some of whom had fled separately, were still missing in the gruelling terrain; many could perish from their wounds or the cold.

By late yesterday, 479 deaths had been registered at the morgue in Agdam, and 29 bodies had been buried in the cemetery. Of the seven corpses I saw awaiting burial, two were children and three were women, one shot through the chest at point blank range.

Agdam hospital was a scene of carnage and terror. Doctors said they had 140 patients who escaped slaughter, most with bullet in juries or deep stab wounds.

Nor were they safe in Agdam. On Friday night rockets fell on the city which has a population of 150,000, destroying several buildings and killing one person.

Corpses litter hills in Karabakh

By Anatol Lieven

As we swooped low over the snow-covered hills of Nagorno-Karabagh we saw the scattered corpses. Apparently, the refugees had been shot down as they ran. An Azerbaijani film of the places we flew over, shown to journalists afterwards, showed dozens of corpses lying in various parts of the hills.

The Azerbaijanis claim that as many as 1000 have died in a mass killing of Azerbaijanis fleeing from the town of Khodjaly, seized by Armenians last week. A further 4,000 are believed to be wounded, frozen to death or missing.

The civilian helicopter's job was to land in the mountains and pick up bodies at sites of the mass killings.

The civilian helicopter picked up four corpses, and it was during this and a previous mission that an Azerbaijani camera man filmed the several dozen bodies on the hillsides.

Back at the airfield in Agdam, we took a look at the bodies the civilian helicopter had picked up. Two old men and small girl were covered with blood, their limbs contorted by the cold and rigor mortis. They had been shot.

THE NEW YORK TIMES

Massacre by Armenians being reported

The last of the former Soviet troops in the Caucasus enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh began pulling out today as fresh evidence emerged of a massacre of civilians by Armenian militants.

The ITAR-TASS press agency said the 366th Motorized Infantry Regiment had started its withdrawal, in effect removing the last frail buffer separating the region's two warring ethnic groups, Armenians and Azerbaijanis. The two sides made no attempt to interfere, it added.

Nagorno-Karabakh is within the Republic of Azerbaijan, but most of its population is Armenian.

Shelling in town reported

The Azerbaijani press agency Azerinform reported fresh Armenian missile fire on the Azerbaijani-populated town of Shusha in Nagorno-Karabakh on Sunday night. It said several people had been wounded in another attack, on the settlement of Venjali, early today.

The Republic of Armenia reiterated denials that its militants had killed 1,000 people in the Azerbaijani-populated town of Khojaly last week and had massacred men, women and children fleeing the carnage across snow-covered mountain passes.

But dozens of bodies scattered over the area lent credence to Azerbaijani reports of a massacre.

Azerbaijani officials and journalists who flew briefly to the region by helicopter brought back three dead children with the backs of their heads blown off. They said shooting by Armenians had prevented them from retrieving more bodies.

"Women and children had been scalped", said Assad Faradzhev, an aide to Nagorno-Karabakh's Azerbaijani Governor.

"When we began to pick up bodies, they began firing at us".

The Azerbaijani militia chief in Agdam, Rashid Mamedov, said: "The bodies are lying there like flocks of sheep. Even the fascists did nothing like this".

Two trucks filled with bodies

Near Agdam on the outskirts of Nagorno-Karabakh, a Reuters photographer, Frederique Lengaigne, said she had seen two trucks filled with Azerbaijani bodies.

"In the first one I counted 35, and it looked as though there were almost as many in the second", she said. "Some had their heads cut off, and many had been burned. They were all men, and a few had been wearing khaki uniforms".

Four years of fighting in Nagorno-Karabakh have killed 1,500 to 2,000 people. The last week's fighting has been the most savage yet.

The 366th Regiment, based in Stepanakert, the capital of Nagorno-Karabakh, has been caught at the center of fighting in which at least three of its soldiers were killed late last month.

Massacre uncovered

By Anatol Lieven

More than sixty bodies, including those of women and children, have been spotted on hillsides in Nagorno-Karabakh, confirming claims that Armenian troops massacred Azeri refugees. Hundreds are missing.

Scattered amid the withered grass and bushes along a small valley and across the hillside beyond are the bodies of last Wednesday's massacre by Armenian forces of Azerbaijani refugees.

In all, 31 bodies could be counted at the scene. At least another 31 have been taken into Agdam over the past five days. These figures do not include civilians reported killed when the Armenians stormed the Azerbaijani town of Khodjaly on Tuesday night. The figures also do not include other as yet undiscovered bodies. Zahid Jabarov, a survivor of the massacre, said he saw up to 200 people shot down at the point we visited, and refugees who came by different routes have also told of being shot at repeatedly and of leaving a trail of bodies along their path. Around the bodies we saw were scattered possessions, clothing and personnel documents. The bodies themselves have been preserved by the bitter cold which killed others as they hid in the hills and forest after the massacre. All are the bodies of ordinary people, dressed in the poor, ugly clothing of workers.

Of the 31 we saw, only one police man and two apparent national volunteers were wearing uniform. All the rest were civilians, including eight women and three small children. Two groups, apparently families, had fallen together, the children cradled in the women's arms.

Several of them, including one small girl, had terrible head injuries: only her face was left. Survivors have told how they saw Armenians shooting them point blank as they lay on the ground.

Atrocity reports horrify Azerbaijan

By Brian Killen

Dozens of bodies lay scattered around the killing fields of Nagorno-Karabakh yesterday, evidence of the worst massacre in four years of fighting over the disputed territory.

Azeri officials who returned from the scene to this town about nine miles away brought back three dead children, the backs of their heads blown off.

At the local mosque, six other bodies lay stretched out, fully clothed, with their limbs frozen in the positions in which they were killed. Their faces were black from the cold.

“Telman!” screamed one woman, beating her breast furiously over the body of her dead father, who lay on his back with his stiff right arm jutting into the air.

Those who returned from a brief visit by helicopter to Khojaly, captured by the Armenians last week, said they had seen similar sights – only more. One Russian journalist said he had counted about 30 bodies within a radius of 50 yards from where the helicopter landed.

Armenia has denied atrocities or mass killings of Azeris after its well-armed irregulars captured Khojaly, the second-biggest Azeri town in Nagorno-Karabakh, last Wednesday. Azerbaijan says 1,000 people were killed.

“Women and children had been scalped”, said Assad Faradzhev, an aide to Karabakh’s Azeri governor.

Mr. Faradzhev said the helicopter, bearing Red Cross markings and escorted by two MI-24 helicopters of the former Soviet army, succeeded in picking up only the three children before Armenian militants opened fire. “When we began to pick up bodies, they started firing at us”, he said.

Mr. Faradzhev said they were on the ground for only 15 minutes.

“The combat helicopters fired red flares to signal that Armenians were approaching and it was time to leave. I was ready to blow my self up if we were captured”, he said pointing to a grenade in his coat pocket.

In Agdam’s mosque, the dead bodies lay on mattresses under a naked light bulb. Hundreds of people crowded outside chanting Islamic prayers. Some wept uncontrollably and collapsed near their dead relatives, brought to the town by truck only minutes earlier.

Chilling film of dozens of stiffened corpses scattered over a snowy hillside backed accounts of the slaughter of women and children sobbed out by refugees who made it safely out of the disputed Caucasus enclave.

Azerbaijani television showed pictures of one truck load of bodies brought to the Azeri town of Agdam, some with their faces apparently scratched with knives or their eyes gouged out. One little girl had her arms stretched out as if crying for help.

Armenians killed 1000, Azeris charge

By Paul Quinn-Judge

Azerbaijan charged yesterday that Armenian militants massacred men, women and children after forcing them from a town in Nagorno-Karabagh last week.

Azerbaijani officials said 1000 Azeris had been killed in town of Khojaly and that Armenian fighters then slaughtered men, women and children fleeing across snow-covered mountain passes.

Armenian officials disputed the death toll and denied the massacre report.

Journalists on the scene said it was difficult to say exactly how many people had been killed in surrounding areas. But a Reuters photographer said he saw two trucks filled with Azeri corpses, and a Russian journalist reported massacre sites elsewhere in the area.

Azeri officials and journalists who flew briefly to the region by helicopter recovered the bodies of three dead children who had been shot in the head, Reuters said, but Armenians prevented them from retrieving more bodies.

There were growing signs that many civilians were killed during the capture of Khojaly.

Footage shot by Azerbaijan Television Sunday showed about 10 dead bodies, including several women and children, in an improvised morgue in Agdam. An editor at the main television station in Baku said 180 bodies had been recovered so far. A helicopter flying over the vicinity is reported to have seen other corpses, while the BBC quoted a French photographer who said that he had counted 31 dead, including women and children, some who appeared as though they were shot in the head at close range.

THE AGE

Melbourne, 6 March 1992

By Helen Womack

The exact number of victims is still unclear, but there can be little doubt that Azeri civilians were massacred by Armenian Army in the snowy mountains of Nagorno-Karabakh last week.

Refugees from the enclave town of Khojaly, sheltering in the Azeri town of Agdam, give largely consistent accounts of how Armenians attacked their homes on the night of 25 February, chased those who fled and shot them in the surrounding forests. Yesterday, I saw 75 freshly dug graves in one cemetery in addition to four mutilated corpses we were shown in the mosque when we arrived in Agdam late on Tuesday. I also saw women and children with bullet wounds in a make shift hospital in a string of railway carriages.

Khojaly, an Azeri settlement in the enclave mostly populated by Armenians, had a population of about 6000. Mr. Rashid Mamedov, Commander of Police in Agdam, said only about 500 escaped to his town. "So where are the rest?" Some might have taken prisoner, he said, or fled. Many bodies were still lying in the mountains because the Azeris were short of helicopters to retrieve them. He believed more than 1000 had perished, some of cold in temperatures as low as minus 10 degrees.

When Azeris saw the Armenians with a convoy of armoured personnel carriers, they realized they could not hope to defend themselves, and fled into the forests. In the small hours, the massacre started.

Mr. Nasirov, who believes his wife and two children were taken prisoner, repeated what many other refugees have said - that troops of the former Soviet army helped the Armenians to attack Khojaly. "It is not my opinion; I saw it with my own eyes".

THE SUNDAY TIMES

London, 8 March 1992

Khojaly used to be a barren Azeri town, with empty shops and treeless dirt roads. Yet it was still home to thousands of Azeri people who, in happier times, tended fields and flocks of geese. Last week it was wiped off the map.

As sickening reports trickled in to the Azerbaijani town of Agdam, and the bodies piled up in the morgues, there was little doubt that Khojaly and the stark foothills and gullies around it had been the site of the most terrible massacre since the Soviet Union broke apart.

The Azeri defenders of the town were picked off one by one. Survivors say that Armenian forces then began a pitiless slaughter, firing at anything moved in the gullies. A video taken by an Azeri cameraman, wailing and crying as he filmed body after body, showed a grizzly trail of death leading towards higher, forested ground where the villagers had sought refuge from the Armenians.

"The Armenians just shot and shot and shot", said Omar Veyselov, lying in hospital in Agdam "I saw my wife and daughter fall right by me", he said.

People wandered through the hospital corridors looking for news of the loved ones. Some vented their fury on foreigners: "Where is my daughter, where is my son?" wailed a mother. "Raped. Butchered. Lost".

The face of a massacre

By Pascal Privat with Steve Le Vine

Azerbaijan was a charnel house again last week: a place of mourning refugees and dozens of mangled corpses dragged to a make shift morgue behind the mosque. They were ordinary Azerbaijani men, women and children of Khojaly, a small village in war-torn Nagorno-Karabakh over run by Armenian forces on Feb. 25-26. Many were killed at close range while trying to flee; some had their faces mutilated, others were scalped. While the victims’ families mourned.

Massacre in Khojaly

By Jill Smolowe

While the details are argued, this much is plain: something grim and unconscionable happened in the Azerbaijani town of Khojaly two weeks ago. So far, some 200 dead Azerbaijanis, many of them mutilated, have been transported out of the town tucked inside the Armenian-dominated enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh for burial in neighboring Azerbaijan. The total number of deaths - the Azerbaijanis claim 1,324 civilians have been slaughtered, most of them women and children - is unknown.

Videotapes circulated by the Azerbaijanis include images of defaced civilians, some of them scalped, others shot in the head...

Aref Sadikov sat quietly in the shade of a cafe-bar on the Caspian Sea esplanade of Baku and showed a line of stitches in his trousers, torn by an Armenian bullet as he fled the town of Khojaly just over three months ago.

“I’m still wearing the same clothes, I don’t have any others”, the 51-years-old carpenter said, beginning his account of the Khojalydisaster. “I was wounded in five places, but I am lucky to be alive”.

Mr. Sadikov and his wife were short of food, without electricity for more than a month, and cut off from helicopter flights for 12 days. They sensed the Armenian noose was tightening around the 2,000 to 3,000 people left in the straggling Azeri town on the edge of Karabakh.

“At about 11pm a bombardment started such as we had never heard before, eight or nine kinds of weapons, artillery, heavy machine-guns, the lot”, Mr. Sadikov said.

Soon neighbours were pouring down the street from the direction of the attack. Some huddled in shelters but others started fleeing the town, down a hill, through a stream and through the snow into a forest on the other side.

To escape, the towns people had to reach the Azeri town of Agdam about 15 miles away. They thought they were going to make it, until at about dawn they reached a bottle neck between the two Azeri villages of Nakhchivanik and Saderak.

“None of my group was hurt up to then... Then we were spotted by a car on the road, and the Armenian outposts started opening fire”, Mr. Sadikov said. Mr. Sadikov said only 10 people from his group of 80 made it through, including his wife and militiaman son. Seven of his immediate relations died, including his 67-years-old elder brother.

“I only had time to reach down and cover his face with his hat”, he said, pulling his own big flat Turkish cap over his eyes. “We have never got any of the bodies back”.

Painful search

The gruesome extent of February’s killings of Azeris by Armenians in the town of Khojaly is at last emerging in Azerbaijan - about 600 men, women and children dead.

The State Prosecutor, Aydin Rasulov, the cheif investigator of a 15-man team looking into what Azerbaijan calls the “Khojaly Massacre”, said his figure of 600 people dead was a minimum on preliminary findings. A similar estimate was given by Elman Memmedov, the mayor of Khojaly. An even higher one was printed in the Baku newspaper Ordu in May - 479 dead people named and more than 200 bodies reported unidentified.

Franñois Zen Ruffinen, head of delegation of the International Red Cross in Baku, said the Muslim imam of the nearby city of Agdam had reported a figure of 580 bodies received at his mosque from Khojaly, most of them civilians. “We did not count the bodies. But the figure seems reasonable. It is no fantasy”, Mr. Zen Ruffinen said.

Mr. Rasulov endeavours to give an unemotional estimate of the number of dead in the massacre. “Don’t get worked up. It will take several months to get a final figure”, the 43-years-old lawyer said at his small office.

Mr. Rasulov knows about these things. It took him two years to reach a firm conclusion that 131 people were killed and 714 wounded when Soviet troops and tanks crushed a nationalist uprising in Baku in January 1990.

Officially, 184 people have so far been certified as dead, being the number of people that could be medically examined by the republic’s forensic department. “This is just a small percentage of the dead”, said Rafiq Youssifov, the republic’s chief forensic scientist. “They were the only bodies brought to us. Remember the chaos and the fact that we are Muslims and have to wash and bury our dead within 24 hours”.

Of these 184 people, 51 were women, and 13 were children under 14 years old.

Gunshots killed 151 people, shrapnel killed 20 and axes or blunt instruments killed 10. Exposure in the highland snows killed the last three. Thirty-three people showed signs of deliberate mutilation, including ears, noses, breasts and eyes gouged out. Those 184 bodies examined were less than a third of those believed to have been killed, Mr. Rasulov said.

“There were too many bodies of dead and wounded on the ground to count properly: 470-500 in Khojaly, 650-700 people by the stream and the road and 85-100 visible around Nakhchivanik village”, Mr. Manafov wrote in a statement countersigned by the helicopter pilot.

“People waved up to us for help. We saw three dead children and one two-years-old alive by one dead woman. The live one was pulling at her arm for the mother to get up. We tried to land but Armenians started a barrage against our helicopter and we had to return”.

Over the night from 25 to 26 February 1992 the Khojaly town (Nagorny Karabakh), inhabited mainly by Azerbaijanis, was subjected to the massive attack from the Armenian side. The units of the Russian 366th infantry guards regiment took part in the attack. As a result, 613 persons dead, 487 wounded, 1275 imprisoned, 150 persons are missing. The Khojaly events have radically changed the nature of the conflict – afterwards the military operations from both sides have actually turned into ethnic cleansings.

IV. TESTIMONIES OF HOSTAGES

Valeh Sahib Huseynov (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25-26 February 1992, after Khojaly was seized by the Armenians, we had to flee away with the other residents of the town. When we reached the place between the villages Shelli and Dahra, the Armenians surrounded us and opened fire. My wife died from bullet wound. On 26 February 1992 they brought us to Askeran. On our way, they were pushing us into the cold water of the Gargar River. Then they locked us up in the Askeran Police Department. There they separated women from men and began to beat us. About 15-20 hostages were kept in each cell. They were hitting us with barrels of machine guns, legs of chairs and batons. Cries were heard from the adjacent cells as well. We realized that the Armenians were beating, raping and abusing women that were being kept there. They pulled the nail out of my thumb and then broke my fingers. During the torture I lost consciousness several times. On 2 March 1992 we were exchanged for 3 Armenians”.

Dilshad Saday Guliyeva (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25 - 26 February 1992 we had to escape our town and flee to the forest. After 4 days of hiding in the forest near Nakhchivanik, about 30 Armenian soldiers took us and brought us to the Armenian village. They threw us in a cellar in the Armenian village and began to beat us cruelly. There they deprived us of food and water, beat us and cauterized both men and women with burning cigarettes. They took away our money and jewelry. They took my gold necklace, watch, rings and earrings. When we showed resistance they beat us severely. My brother-in-law, Mikayil Guliyev, unable to bear the tortures, committed suicide”.

Yusif Museyib Karimov (Khojaly resident): “On 26 February 1992, Armenians brought us to the school in Khankendi. We were terribly tortured there. They undressed Irada, 24-year-old daughter of Shargiyya, raped her and began to beat her. The Armenians also raped my wife Iltima Karimova and cut her long hair to make her look ugly. As the Armenians struck my 6 and 7-year-old children against the concrete floor, they still suffer from headaches. Then the Armenians separated me from the women, threw me to a cellar and subjected me to terrible tortures. My four left ribs were fractured as a result of blows. One Armenian thrust a knife into my left shoulder and pulled it out of my chest, lit a piece of paper on fire, burned my hair and then threw me back to the cell. There I saw my wife, children and other men and women bleeding and moaning. We were exchanged in July 1992”.

Sahida Gurban Alakbarova (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25 - 26 February 1992 the town of Khojaly was exposed to fire opened from 3 directions. We had to leave the town. The Armenians took us hostage along with 9 people in an area called Garagaya and brought to the Askeran Potice Department. They took all our documents, money and jewelry on the way there. The Armenians took young girls and tortured them. One day they wanted to take my 6-year-old daughter. I did not let them take her and they began to torture me with cruelty.... Later, along with 70 other people we were exchanged for two Armenian corpses”.

Adila Ali Nacafova (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25-26 February 1992 the Armenians seized Khojaly, and so we were forced to leave the town. There were about 150-200 people among us. We fled to the forest, but were captured by Armenians. The Armenians took away our money and jewelry, pulled out our golden teeth with pliers, snatched earrings from women’s ears. My father’s and my gold teeth were pulled out as well. They cruelly murdered our neighbor Jalal’s wife, daughter, son and his son’s fiancé. They tied a man named Mushfig to a car and dragged him along the ground before our eyes. His face was injured and arms fractured. We were severely beaten several times a day”.

Ramil Bilman Alakbarov (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25-26 February 1992 I left my home town of Khojaly with my parents. That time I was 12 years old. We left the town and fled to the forest. The Armenians surrounded us and began to shoot. I was wounded in my left leg. There I saw with my own eyes that the Armenians shot 16 young people and shoveled them into a well dug with a tractor. When we wanted to flee to Aghdam the Armenians caught us and brutally beat my father. They took our jewelry and money. Then they brought us to a farm located in the Aghdam district and kept us there for 3 days. As my leg was seriously wounded, my parents tied it with a string to stop the bleeding. The Armenians were severely beating the hostages being kept there... Now I suffer from these injuries. I still cannot walk properly. My father suffers from kidney and liver diseases as a result of the tortures he was exposed to in captivity”.

Mahir Imran Khalilov (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25-26 February 1992 the Armenians attacked Khojaly. They burnt houses, killed innocent people and looted all our property. We fled to the forest. A day later we reached the village of Abdal-Gulabli in Aghdam. There we were surrounded and captured by 30 Armenian soldiers... When we were taken hostage the Armenians beat us cruelly and took us to the village of Dahraz in the Askeran district. There we were kept in a cellar for a week. Although there were small children among us, we were kept in the cold without food and water and beaten with barrels of machine guns, bludgeons and sticks”.

Sattar Mukhtar Agayev (Khojaly resident): “We left Khojaly on the night of 25-26 1992. The weather was very frosty. My little son could not stand frost and died in my hands. We were surrounded and captured by Armenians. I wanted to take my son’s body but they kicked his dead body and did not let me take him... When I wanted to embrace him they viciously beat me and I lost consciousness. They pulled out all my teeth with pliers. Wounds on my legs began to rot. They did not provide any medical care to me. After being in captivity for 35 days I was released”.

Rahila Rashid Hajieva (Khojaly resident): “The Armenians entered our house and captured us on 26 February at about 11.00 a.m. They were fiercely beating us. My little daughter Safayat was crying: “Don’t beat my mother”. An Armenian threw her from the second floor and she injured her knee joint.

My 25 year-old sister-in law Rahila Shafa Mustafayeva was raped by the Armenians several times. They were beating us with barrels of machine guns and bludgeons. They were cauterizing the eyes and different parts of our bodies with burning cigarettes and raping women. 7 days later we were exchanged for Armenian captives. Although we underwent medical treatment after captivity, it was impossible to save the lives of my sister-in-law Rahila and my daughter Shafayat. My daughter died at the age of 22”.

Farman Gazanfar Mammadov (Khojaly resident): “The Armenians seized Khojaly on the night of 25-26 February 1992. We were forced to leave our native land. I was 10 years old then. With my mother we fled to the forest along with the other civilians. Without food we had to stay there in the freezing cold for 3 days. Then we were taken hostage by the Armenians. They beat us severely and brought us to the Askeran Police Department. There they kept us in a cell for 10 days. There were about 20-30 people. Every day prison guards were beating us with steel reinforcement sticks and raping young women. They kept us without food. I was a child and when I cried of fear the Armenians were knocking me down and kicking me”.

Elshad Allahverdi Agayev (Khojaly resident): “On 26 February 1992, at about 8.00-9.00 a.m., the Armenians opened fire. We tried to escape and hide in the trench, but were surrounded and captured. Armenians were abusing and beating us with the barrels of machine guns, pieces of wood and iron, and forced us to walk by foot to the town of Askeran. My sister Durdana and I were brought to the temporary detention unit of the Askeran Police Department. Armenians in military uniform were beating people in the cells with batons, barrels of machine guns, pieces of wood and iron, dragging women by hair along the corridors, raping and then flinging them to separate cells”.

Shakhnaz Yusif Behbudova (Khojaly resident): “On the night of 25-26 February 1992 Khojaly was seized. We fled to the forest near the village of Nakhchivanik together with our children. When we reached the cemetery between Aghdam and Askeran the Armenians surrounded us and started to shoot from machine guns. Everyone began to flee in different directions. There were many women, children, and elderly people among us. Lining us up, again the Armenians began to hit us with different objects, abused and then shoved us to the basement of the Askeran Police Department. There they kept men separately from women. There were about 40-50 wounded women and children in our cell. Tortures were horrible. They were ripping out women’s arms, noses and ears. Children were crying and wounded people were moaning. Sometimes the Armenians were coming to our cell and taking away young women and upon their return we knew that they had been raped”.

Yashar Shahmali Alimammadov (Khojaly resident): “We were surrounded and captured by Armenians near the Pirjamal village at about 10.00-11.00 a.m. on 27 February 1992. They put sacks over our heads and brought us somewhere in a car. When they took the sacks off we found ourselves in the stable where cattle, donkeys and sheep were kept. There were about 200-300 residents from Khojaly, including women and elderly. The Armenians took money, jewelry and other valuable things away from people. They pulled out golden teeth by pincers. On that day, at around 16:00 p.m about 20 bearded men in both civil and military uniforms entered the stable with steel reinforcement sticks, wood and machine guns, divided us into several groups and began to beat us savagely on the head, back and legs. They hit me on the nose with a machine gun barrel and broke it. I lost consciousness because of pain and, after coming to my senses, could not see for a while. After beating us cruelly and threatening us with fire-arms, they made us stand on one foot for hours and eat soil and cattle waste. On 2 March 1992 they released us. Currently I hold a second degree disability status because of the injuries I received in captivity.

“Khojaly was the victim of ethnic cleansing of the worst kind. A significant part of the civilian population of the town, numbering 7,000 before the attack, was mutilated and killed, and the remaining population was forced to flee eastwards to Aghdam and seek refuge. As is the case in most instances of ethnic cleansing, the atrocities carried out by the aggressor served a double purpose: they forced the population to flee and never to return, as well as intimidating inhabitants of nearby villages, causing them to fear similar actions. The death toll at Khojaly is debated. Armenians, naturally, tend to understate estimating the number of dead civilians at less than a hundred; furthermore Armenian sources, in the rare case where they mention the event, blame the Azeris focusing the Khojaly residents as human shields, and claim that the civilians were caught in cross-fire rather than massacred ... This in turn is nothing but a justification of ethnic cleansing and the military conquest of land. Despite the claims of Armenians and their proxies, it is beyond doubt that a massacre of civilians did take place...The Khojaly massacre stands out and was very effective as it to a large extent spared the Karabakh Armenians the trouble of Photographer Oleg Litvin fell into a catatonic state and would only shoot pictures when I threw him at the subject: corpses, graves, and wailing women who were gouging their cheeks with their nails. Yes, it required stomach, but it was time to work, to report: a massacre had occurred, and the world had to know. We scoured the town, making repeated stops at the hospital, morgue, and growing graveyards, out of the ends of the defensive perimeter for horrible spot-interviews with straggling survivors as they stumbled in, and then back to the hospital to check on new wounded and then back to the morgue to watch truckloads of bodies being brought in for identification and ritual washing before burial. I looked for familiar faces, and thought I saw some people I knew: one corpse was identified as that of a young veterinarian who had been shot through the eye point-blank. I tried to remember if I had known or been introduced to such a man in Xodjali, but could not be sure. Other bodies, stiffened by rigor mortis, seemed to speak of execution: arms were thrown up, as if in permanent surrender. A number of heads lacked hair, as if the corpses had been scalped. It was not a pretty sight.”⁴⁰

Beginning in the New Year of 1992, the Armenians began to break out of the Karabakhi capital, Stepanakert. They captured the Azerbaijani villages that surrounded the town, expelling the hundreds of Azerbaijanis who remained there. Their main target was now KKhojaly... The Armenian assault began on the night of 25-26 February... Armoured vehicles from the Soviet 366th Regiment lent their support. They surrounded Khojaly before Armenian fighters went in and over whelmed the local defenders... In the middle of the night, a large crowd fled through the woods, which were ankle-deep in snow, and started to descend the valley of the small Gargar River. In early morning, the crowd of Khojaly civilians, interspersed with a few militia men, emerged onto open ground near the Armenian village of Nakhchivanik. There they were hit by a wall of gun fire from Armenian fighters on the hill side above... More fleeing civilians kept on coming onto a scene of appalling carnage... Asked about the taking of Khojali, the Armenian military leader Serzh Sarkisian's summation of what had happened, however, was more honest and more brutal: "I think the main point is something different. Before Khojali, the Azerbaijanis thought that they were joking with us, they thought that the Armenians were people who could not raise their hand against the civilian population. We were able to break that [stereotype]. And that's what happened". Sarkisian's account throws a different light on the worst massacre of the Karabakh war, suggesting that the killings may, at least in part, have been a deliberate act of mass killing as intimidation."⁴¹

Foreign Relations Committee

25th extraordinary meeting, 7th of February 2013

With regard to the 21st anniversary of the massacre in Azerbaijan town of Khojaly and offering sympathy to the people of Azerbaijan.

February 26, 2013, marks the 21st anniversary of the massacre in Azerbaijan town of Khojaly, whence Armenian military units occupied the town and brutally killed 613 defenseless civilians.

The massacre was reported by numerous news organizations and has been declared by Human Rights Watch/Helsinki to be a violation by Armenian military units of customary law regarding the treatment of civilians in war zones. It was a crime against humanity condemned by numerous governments around the world.

This tragic event is a reminder of what terrible bloodshed can the wars bring and of the enduring need for understanding, mutual communication and tolerance among people all over the world.

However, the UN Security Council resolutions 822 (1993), 853 (1993), 874 (1993) and 884 (1993), which call on Armenian military units to cease the occupation of the territory of Azerbaijan, remain unfulfilled. The UN General Assembly, the European Parliament, Council of Europe and the OSCE Parliamentary Assemblies by their respective resolutions supported the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Republic of Azerbaijan, including Nagorno Karabakh.

The Foreign Relations Committee of the Chamber of Deputies of the Parliament of the Czech Republic condemns all instances of ethnic cleansing, massacre and genocide against defenseless civilians, regardless of their place and time of their perpetration. We appeal to fulfill accepted resolutions which condemn all such kind of acts. In this context we still recognize the Khojaly massacre as a crime against humanity, which we condemn and repudiate. Hereby, we commemorate the 21st anniversary of this tragic event and offer our sincere sympathy to the people of Azerbaijan.

zahraničního výboru
z 25.-A. mimořádné schůze dne 7. února 2013

k 21. výročí masakru v ázerbajdžánském městě Chodžaly a vyjádření soustrastí ázerbajdžánskému lidu

26. února 2013 tomu bude 21 let od masakru v ázerbajdžánském městě Chodžaly, kdy arménské jednotky v tomto okupovaném městě brutálním způsobem usmrtily 613 bezbranných civilistů..

O tomto masakru informovalo mnoho světových médií a tento čin byl organizací Human Rights Watch/Helsinki prohlášen za porušení obvyklých norem týkajících se nakládání s civilisty ve válečných zónách ze strany arménských jednotek. Jednalo se o zločin proti lidskosti, který mnohé vlády země světa odsoudily.

Tento tragický případ je připomenutím toho, k jak hrozným krveprolitím může docházet ve válkách, a poukazuje na neustálou potřebu porozumění, vzájemné komunikace a tolerance mezi lidmi na světě.

Stále však nedošlo k naplnění rezolucí RB OSN 822 (1993), 853 (1993), 874 (1993) a 884 (1993), které vyzývají arménské jednotky k ukončení okupace ázerbajdžánského území. Valné shromáždění OSN, Evropský parlament, Parlamentní shromáždění Rady Evropy a OBSE svými rezolucemi podpořili suverenitu a teritoriální integritu Ázerbajdžánské republiky včetně Náhorního Karabachu.

Zahraniční výbor Poslanecké sněmovny Parlamentu ČR odsuzuje veškeré případy etnických čistek, masakrů a genocidy na bezbranných civilistech, a to bez ohledu na to, kdy a kde byly spáchány. Apeluje na důsledné vymáhání rezolucí přijatých a odsuzujících veškeré podobné činy. V tomto kontextu stále pokládá masakr v Chodžalech za zločin proti lidskosti, který odsuzuje a odmítá. Tímto si připomíná 21. výročí této tragédie a vyjadřuje soustrast ázerbajdžánskému lidu.

The Foreign Relations Commission of

Honorable Senado de la República
Comisión de Relaciones Exteriores

Constancia 001 de 2017

Como Presidente de la Comisión de Relaciones Exteriores y Defensa Nacional del Senado de la República de Colombia, junto con los demás Senadores abajo firmantes, nos solidarizamos con el pueblo de la República de Azerbaiyán con motivo de la conmemoración de los 25 años del genocidio JODYAL en memoria de los centenares de vidas que se perdieron ese fatídico día.

El pueblo colombiano entiende perfectamente lo que significa la pérdida de vidas como producto de guerras sin sentido, motivo por el cual celebramos que nuestro gobierno haya llegado a un Acuerdo para la Terminación del Conflicto, considerando el Derecho a la Vida, como el principal propósito para resolver las disputas mediante el diálogo, por lo cual transmitimos nuestro más profundo deseo de que el pueblo de Azerbaiyán y Armenia puedan resolver el conflicto mediante un acuerdo pacífico.

Hechos violentos como los ocurridos hace 25 años en ese fatídico 26 de febrero de 1992 cuando tropas de la República de Armenia y separatistas en Nagorno Karabaj cegaron la vida de centenares de mujeres, niños, ancianos azerbaiyanos, no deben tener cabida a un capítulo más en la historia del mundo.

Reconocemos los esfuerzos que ha realizado el pueblo de Azerbaiyán para alcanzar una paz negociada con el pueblo de Armenia, acudiendo siempre a las instancias internacionales como garantía de salvaguardar siempre los Derechos Humanos, el Derecho Internacional Humanitario y el Derecho a la Integridad Territorial en todas sus acciones.

En ese sentido como Representantes del Senado de Colombia, hacemos un llamado de la manera más respetuosa al gobierno de Armenia, que, mediante la demostración de hechos concretos, de señales de su buena intención y disposición para alcanzar un acuerdo de paz definitivo, que resuelva de manera pacífica el conflicto generado debido a la ocupación arbitraria de más del 20% del territorio azerbaiyano, dando cumplimiento a:

Las resoluciones 822, 853, 874, 884 del Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU, donde se establece e l retiro de las Tropas de Armenia de los territorios de Azerbaiyán incluyendo Nagorno Karabaj.

Para finalizar solo nos resta desear que estas dos Naciones encuentren el camino de la reconciliación, ya que siempre traerá mayor desarrollo para nuestros pueblos la Paz que la Guerra.
Con esta constancia, ratificamos nuestro respaldo al pueblo de Azerbaiyán.

Como constancia y certificación se expide en Bogotá D.C., a los veinte (20) días de mes de Febrero del año dos mil diecisiete (2017).

DECLARACIÓN

DECRETO No. 333-2013

EL CONGRESO NACIONAL,

CONSIDERANDO: Que la República de Honduras, además de ser parte de los Estados fundadores de la Organización de las Naciones Unidas, fue firmante del Tratado de Versalles y Estado fundador de la Sociedad de Naciones.

CONSIDERANDO: Que de conformidad con la Carta de las Naciones Unidas, los principios en que descansa el orden internacional son la igualdad soberana de todos sus Miembros, el cumplimiento de buena fe las obligaciones contraídas, el arreglo pacífico de sus controversias internacionales y la prohibición de recurrir a la amenaza o al uso de la fuerza contra la integridad territorial o la independencia política de cualquier Estado.

CONSIDERANDO: Que esos principios han sido aceptados por los Estados amantes de la paz y las organizaciones regionales en que participan, en el marco de la subordinación de sus organizaciones regionales a la Carta de las Naciones Unidas.

CONSIDERANDO: Que Honduras ha hecho "suyos los principios y prácticas del Derecho Internacional" al elevarlos a rango constitucional en su artículo 15 de la Carta Magna.

CONSIDERANDO: Que Honduras, así como la mayoría de los Estados de Hispano América han aceptado el principio del "uti possidetis juris" como determinante a los efectos de identificar la extensión territorial y los límites de cada Estado en el momento de proclamar su independencia política.

CONSIDERANDO: Que ese principio del "uti possidetis juris", que inicialmente estaba circunscrito en su aplicación a los Estados que formaron parte del Imperio Español y luego obtuvieron su independencia, ha sido asimilado por la jurisprudencia internacional a la doctrina de la sucesión de Estados.

CONSIDERANDO: Que la República de Azerbaiyán mientras formó parte de la Unión de Repúblicas Socialistas Soviéticas tenía y continúa teniendo, al igual que las demás Repúblicas parte de ese Estado, su extensión territorial y sus límites claramente definidos y respetados por la Unión, por sus Estados miembros y la sociedad internacional en general.

CONSIDERANDO: Que la República de Azerbaiyán, al proclamar su independencia en octubre de 1991, de acuerdo a la doctrina de la sucesión de Estados goza como Estado independiente del mismo territorio y con los mismos límites con que era reconocido en el marco de la Unión de República Socialistas Soviéticas.

CONSIDERANDO: Que la República de Armenia, antes y después de proclamar su independencia, sus autoridades emprendieron una política de expansión territorial en perjuicio de su vecina Azerbaiyán, pretendiendo anexar por la vía de los hechos consumados amplios espacios terrestres pertenecientes a la soberanía de Azerbaiyán.

CONSIDERANDO: Que en los años 1991 y 1992 el Gobierno de la República de Armenia, aprovechando la inestabilidad política provocada por la disolución de la Unión Soviética, intensificó su política de expansión territorial al pasar a una fase militar mediante operaciones de combate para la ocupación de la región de Nagorno Karabaj y siete (7) distritos circundantes. En el conflicto se cometieron actos de genocidio y otros actos de lesa humanidad contra la población de Azerbaiyán en Jodyali, dando lugar durante las operaciones militares a la muerte de cerca de 30,000 personas y más de un millón personas desplazadas.

CONSIDERANDO: Que en su política expansionista, el Gobierno de Armenia ha violado el principio fundamental del Sistema de Naciones Unidas consistente en la prohibición de recurrir a la amenaza o al uso de la fuerza contra la integridad territorial o la independencia política de cualquier Estado, además de principios generales de derecho humanitario.

CONSIDERANDO: Que asimismo, el Gobierno de Armenia ha violado el principio del arreglo pacífico de controversias y se ha empeñado en una política de presentar hechos consumados, violentando los derechos de la población civil que ha sido desalojada de sus viviendas, posesiones, ciudades y territorios.

CONSIDERANDO: Que la invasión y ocupación militar por parte del Gobierno de Armenia de territorios soberanos de Azerbaiyán, además de violar principios fundamentales de derecho internacional, ha producido masivos desplazamientos de población de Azerbaiyán.

CONSIDERANDO: Que esos actos del Gobierno de la República de Armenia, son constitutivos de ilícitos internacionales, incluyendo el desprecio por la vida de la población civil de Azerbaiyán, que ponen en peligro la paz y la seguridad internacional.

CONSIDERANDO: Que a pesar que a lo largo de los últimos veintiún (21) años la Asamblea General y el Consejo de Seguridad de las Naciones Unidas han emitido resoluciones números 822, 853, 874 y 884 de 1992 y 1993, respectivamente, demandando «la retirada inmediata de todas las fuerzas armenias de todos los territorios azerbaiyanos ocupados», el conflicto aún persiste.

CONSIDERANDO: Que el Gobierno de Armenia permanece desafiante ante las condenas y demandas de la Organización de las Naciones Unidas.

POR TANTO,
DECLARACIÓN

ARTICULO 1.- Su más enérgica condena contra las autoridades de la República de Armenia, por su conducta agresiva de invasión, ocupación militar de territorio soberano de Azerbaiyán y de ultraje sin precedentes a su población civil.

ARTICULO 2.- Expresar su solidaridad con el pueblo, el Estado y el Gobierno de Azerbaiyán ante los atropellos de que han sido objeto por parte de Armenia.

ARTICULO 3.- Instar a los órganos responsables de velar por la paz y la seguridad internacional que adopten medidas decisivas para asegurar el retorno del territorio de Azerbaiyán al status quo ante bellum.

ARTICULO 4.- Instar al Gobierno de la República de Honduras para que, en el ejercicio de sus competencias en el ámbito internacional, le dé seguimiento a la situación de agresión contra Azerbaiyán y apoye las gestiones internacionales puestas en marcha para restablecer la integridad territorial, la paz y la seguridad del Estado de Azerbaiyán, así como al derecho a existir y vivir en paz en su territorio.

REPUBLIC OF INDONESIA

February 22, 2017

DEWAN PERWAKILAN RAKYAT
REPUBLIK INDONESIA

The Statement of Commission I of the House of Representatives of the Republic of Indonesia at the 25th Commemoration of the “Khojaly Tragedy”

“Genocide Khojaly” is the most painful wound that the nation of Azerbaijan has faced since its early stages of independence, on 26th of February, 1992.

Commission I noted that people of different fields and levels; students, artists, academics, journalists, politicians, leaders, human rights observers and the like from all over the world, have known the motives, realities, and the manner of execution behind “the Khojaly Genocide” and have come to the decision that it is not only the pain of the Azerbaijan nation, but the wound of people across the world, as it is at the same time a crime against all humankind.

Commission I see bilateral relations between Indonesia and Azerbaijan in brotherhood framework. We strongly believe that one of the best ways to succeed in the above mentioned noble cause – building true brotherhood – is through learning about each other's wounds and standing side by side for moral and, if necessary, practical support.

As the former Speaker of the House of Representatives (DPR-RI) H.E. Marzuki Ali said that the House expressed its full support for the sovereignty of Azerbaijan and it seeks a peaceful resolution to the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict. He discussed the “Khojali Genocide” as well as the resolution of the 7th PUIC (Parliamentary Union of the OIC) Conference in Palembang, Indonesia. He said:

*“the House leader is of the opinion that the Indonesian legislative body should support the sovereignty and unity of the Republic of Azerbaijan. Indonesia should support the principle of respectation the integrity of a country's area and its border that have been officially recognized internationally. We support a peaceful resolution to the Nagorno-Karabakh issue based on the UN Security Council's four resolutions in the framework of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) Minsk Group”.*¹

In his speech, H.E. Mr. Marzuki Alie made a passionate appeal to the government:

"We would also like to express our deepest sympathies for the mass killings in the town of Khojaly. The Indonesian legislative body requests that the government not open its representative office in Armenia until the dispute between Azerbaijan and Armenia is resolved".²

The House (DPR-RI) has agreed to maintain this stance. As a continuation of Indonesian foreign policy towards Khojaly Genocide issue, Commission I of the House has four main perspectives:

1. Commission I respect the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan and condemned all forms of colonization as it is not in conformity with humanity and justice. The Republic of Azerbaijan has become an independent state when aggression occurred. All states have to respects the sovereignty and freedom of Azerbaijan.
2. Commission I express condolences and sympathies to the hundreds of innocent people of Azerbaijan who were killed because of their specific background (Muslim). More than a million people of Azerbaijan also were deported from their historical lands and became Internally Displaced Persons (IDP) because of Armenian occupation.
3. Indonesia urges Armenia to comply with the resolutions adopted by the U.N. Security Council (number 822, 853, 874, and 884), all of which demand that Armenia immediately withdraws from Azerbaijan occupied territory (Nagorno-Karabakh). Being part of international community, Indonesia certainly hopes for the best solution for the settlement of the ongoing conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan.
4. Commission I encourage the Indonesian government to maintain the bilateral ties both with Armenia as well as Azerbaijan based on Indonesian foreign policy direction. However, we should not forget to the Khojaly genocide and never retreat from its position to push both sides to resolve the conflict peacefully.

e) Urged all parties to refrain from committing any violations to the international humanitarian law, reaffirmed the call to allow the access of international humanitarian aid to the affected areas; and

f) Urged all states in the region to refrain of any hostile act, intervention that might aggravate the conflict or undermine the peace and security of the region.

VII. That on November 11th of 1993 through resolution 884 the Security Council of the United Nations (UN) among other aspects:

a) Condemned the violations of the ceasefire established between the parts, which had as a result the reiteration of hostilities and the new occupation of territories of the Republic of Azerbaijan.

b) Urged the government of Armenia to ensure that its nationals established in the region of Nagorno-Karabakh to obey the resolutions numbers 822, 853 and 874 of the Security Council;

c) Demanded the interested parties to immediately cease hostilities and the unilateral withdrawal of armed forces of the occupied territories of Azerbaijan;

d) Exhorted al the interested parties to renovate and make effective the ceasefire in a permanent way, and to continue searching for a negotiated settlement of the conflict;

e) Again exhorted all states in the region to refrain from any hostile act or interference that could aggravate the conflict, undermine peace and security in the region; and,

f) Asked the secretary general of the united nations and competent international organisms, to provide urgent humanitarian aid to the affected civilian population, as well ass to help the refugees and displaced people to return to their homes without danger and with dignity.

- VIII. That, with these resolutions, the Security Council of the UN reaffirmed the principles of respect for sovereignty, territorial integrity and inviolability of international borders.
- IX. That this armed conflict, motivated by a territorial dispute has generated the occupation of territories not originally committed to this conflict; displaced persons and refugees, thousands of dead, injured or disappeared people; Economic areas of the country were severely affected; hospitals, homes, apartments, office buildings, auditoriums, schools, museums, factories, irrigation systems, bridges, roads, water pipes and gas, and supply stations were destroyed. The damage inflicted on the Republic of Azerbaijan has been estimated at tens of billions of dollars.
- X. Although on May 12, 1994, by decision taken at the OSCE summit in Budapest, a ceasefire was determined, violations of the cease-fire continue to happen and increased since 2003.
- XI. That since 2004 direct conversations between the Ministers of Azerbaijan and Armenia known as the Prague process have begun; however to date the parties have not been able to achieve a substantial development that allows the resolution of the conflict.
- XIII. That Peru has been characterized by championing progressive causes and to strive for a international order based on the peaceful resolution of controversies, this congress deeply regrets that the conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan remains, and that the solution has not been found trough the different mechanisms put into motion; for this we exhorts the involved actors to strengthen the actions directed to the obtaining of peace, with full respect to the territorial integrity of the parts and international law.
- XIV. That the Commission of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Peru, in its sixteenth ordinary session, celebrated on June 10th 2013 agreed to subscribe and promote the present motion, and thus with respect of the constitutional faculties conferred to the executive power.

AGREE TO PROPOSE TO THE PLENARY OF CONGRESS

1. The Congress or the Republic of Peru, with full respect to the sovereignty of the people of Armenia and Azerbaijan, exhorts its governments to instigate, as quickly and efficiently as possible, encounters under the format they consider convenient, in hopes of reaching an agreement that would put a definitive end to the conflict that's maintained.
2. To remember that justice has not arrived to the victims of this conflicts despite many years passing, as an example over 21 years after the Khojaly massacre, we have to manifest that a central element for any peace accord should be to put into motion as soon as possible measures that contribute to the mending of the bonds among people and to reconstruct as soon as possible the harmony between nations.

MOCIÓN DE ORDEN DEL DÍA

Los Congresistas de la República que suscriben, miembros de la Comisión de Relaciones Exteriores, de manera multipartidaria:

CONSIDERANDO:

I.- Que a finales de 1987 comenzó el denominado "período reciente" del conflicto entre Armenia y Azerbaiyán, en el que se produjeron, entre otros, los ataques en Khankandí, ciudad también conocida como Stepanakert.

II.- Que, en el marco de dicho conflicto, entre 1988 y 1989 se suscitaron constantes ataques y un proceso de deportación masiva de aproximadamente docientas mil personas.

III.- Que a fines de 1991 y principios de 1992, aprovechando la inestabilidad política ocasionada por la disolución de la Unión de Repúblicas Socialistas Soviéticas, se intensificó el conflicto, pasándose a una fase militar en la región de Nagorno-Karabaj.

IV.- Que durante la noche del 25 al 26 de febrero de 1992 ocurrió una terrible masacre contra la población de Azerbaiyán en Jodyalí, pereciendo 613 personas, incluyendo niños y ancianos; tomándose como rehenes a 1,275 habitantes de la zona; desapareciendo 150 personas; quedando mutilados 487 habitantes de Jodyalí, incluyendo 76 menores de edad; resultando huérfanos 26 niños y perdiendo, otros 130, al menos a uno de sus padres. Ataque calificado de genocidio que quedó plenamente documentado y, después del cual, 7 distritos circundantes a la región de Nagorno Karabaj quedaron ocupadas por fuerzas de Armenia.

V.- Que el 30 de abril y el 29 de julio de 1993 el Consejo de Seguridad de la Organización de las Naciones Unidas (ONU) aprobó las Resoluciones números 822 y 853, a través de las cuales:

- a) Exigió el cese inmediato de todas las hostilidades, con miras a establecer un cese al fuego duradero, así como el retiro inmediato de todas las fuerzas en los territorios de Kalbajar y Agdám, y otras localidades ocupadas de Azerbaiyán;
- b) Instó a las partes interesadas a reanudar las negociaciones para la solución del conflicto y a abstenerse de cualquier acto que obstaculizara el logro de una solución pacífica;

c) Pidió que se permitiera el acceso libre del socorro humanitario internacional en la región, a fin de aliviar los sufrimientos de la población civil, reafirmando que todas las partes tienen la obligación de acatar los principios y normas del Derecho internacional humanitario; y

d) Pidió al Secretario General de las Naciones Unidas que, en consulta con el Presidente en funciones de la Conferencia sobre la Seguridad y la Cooperación en Europa (CSCE) y el Presidente del Grupo de Minsk de la Conferencia, evaluara la situación en la región y presentara un nuevo informe al Consejo.

VI.- Que el 14 de octubre del mismo año el Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU aprobó la Resolución número 874, mediante la cual, entre otras cuestiones:

a) Hizo un llamamiento a las partes para hacer efectiva y permanente la cesación del fuego;

b) Reiteró su pleno apoyo al proceso de paz pretendido en el marco de la CSCE;

c) Pidió la aplicación inmediata de las medidas recíprocas y urgentes previstas por el Grupo de Minsk de la CSCE, incluyendo el retiro de las fuerzas de los territorios ocupados;

d) Pidió la pronta convocatoria de la Conferencia de Minsk de la CSCE, para lograr un arreglo negociado del conflicto;

e) Pidió a todas las partes abstenerse de cometer cualquier violación del Derecho internacional humanitario, reiterando el llamamiento a permitir el acceso de los servicios internacionales de socorro humanitario en las zonas afectadas; y

f) Instó a todos los Estados de la región a abstenerse de todo acto hostil y de cualquier injerencia o intervención que pudiera llevar al agravamiento del conflicto, socavando la paz y la seguridad en la región.

VII.- Que el 11 de noviembre de 1993, a través de la Resolución número 884, el Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU, entre otros aspectos:

a) Condenó la violación al cese al fuego establecido entre las partes, que tuvo como resultado la reanudación de hostilidades y la ocupación de nuevos territorios de la República de Azerbaiyán;

b) Instó al gobierno de Armenia a lograr que sus nacionales establecidos en la región de Nagorno-Karabaj acaten las Resoluciones número 822, 853 y 874 del Consejo de Seguridad;

c) Exigió a las partes interesadas el inmediato cese de hostilidades y el retiro unilateral de fuerzas armadas de los territorios ocupados en Azerbaiyán;

d) Exhortó a las partes interesadas a reanudar y a hacer efectiva en forma permanente la cesación del fuego y a continuar buscando un arreglo negociado del conflicto;

e) Exhortó nuevamente a los Estados de la región a abstenerse de todo acto hostil y de cualquier injerencia o intervención que pudiera llevar al agravamiento del conflicto, socavando la paz y la seguridad en la región; y

f) Pidió al Secretario General de las Naciones Unidas y a los organismos internacionales competentes que proporcionen asistencia humanitaria urgente a la población civil afectada y que ayuden a los refugiados y personas desplazadas a retornar a sus hogares sin peligro y con dignidad.

VIII.- Que, con esas Resoluciones, el Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU reafirmó los principios de respeto a la soberanía, integridad territorial e inviolabilidad de las fronteras internacionales.

IX.- Que este conflicto armado, motivado por una disputa territorial, ha generado la ocupación de territorios no comprometidos inicialmente en el conflicto ; personas desplazadas y refugiadas; miles de personas muertas, heridas y desaparecidas; áreas económicas gravemente afectadas; destrucción de hospitales, casas, departamentos, escuelas, edificios de negocios, auditorios, fábricas, sistemas de irrigación, puentes, carreteras, tuberías para abastecimiento de agua y gas, así como de estaciones de suministro. Estos últimos, daños materiales estimados en decenas de miles de millones de dólares americanos.

X.- Que aunque el 12 de mayo de 1994, mediante acuerdo tomado en la cumbre de la CSCE en Budapest, se determinó el cese al fuego, se han seguido produciendo ataques, con mayor frecuencia a partir de 2003.

XI.- Que desde el 2004 se iniciaron conversaciones directas entre los ministros de Azerbaiyán y Armenia, conocidas como el "Proceso de Praga"; sin embargo, a la fecha, las partes no han podido lograr un avance sustancial que permita la solución del conflicto.

XIII.- Que, en tanto que el Perú se ha caracterizado por abanderar causas justas y progresistas, así como por buscar un orden internacional de paz basado en la solución pacífica de las controversias, este Congreso lamenta profundamente que el conflicto entre Armenia y Azerbaiyán subsista, no habiéndose encontrado una solución a través de los distintos mecanismos puestos en marcha; por ello, exhorta a los diversos actores involucrados a fortalecer las acciones tendientes a la consecución de la paz, con pleno respeto a la integridad territorial de las partes y a las normas del Derecho internacional.

XIV.- Que la Comisión de Relaciones Exteriores del Congreso de la República del Perú, en su Décimo Sexta sesión ordinaria, celebrada el 10 de junio de 2013, acordó suscribir y promover la presente moción, por lo que, respetando las facultades constitucionales conferidas al Poder Ejecutivo

ACUERDAN PROPONER AL PLENO DEL CONGRESO:

1.- Que el Congreso de la República del Perú, con pleno respeto a la soberanía de los pueblos de Armenia y Azerbaiyán, exhorte a sus gobiernos a propiciar, de la manera más pronta y expedita, encuentros bajo el formato que se considere conveniente, a efectos de alcanzar un acuerdo que ponga fin de manera definitiva al conflicto que mantienen.

2.- Que se recuerde que la justicia no ha llegado a las víctimas de este conflicto pese a haber transcurrido muchos años, como por ejemplo más de 21 años desde la masacre de Jodyalí, por lo que se debe manifestar que un elemento central para cualquier acuerdo de paz debiera ser el poner en marcha, a la brevedad, medidas que contribuyan a sanar los vínculos entre los pueblos y a reconstruir, tan pronto como sea posible, la armonía entre ambas naciones.

DECISION OF NATIONAL COUNCIL, REPUBLIC OF SLOVENIA:

On 20th of February 2016 the National Council of the Republic of Slovenia was taken the decision and adopted the initiative of National Councillor Mr. Rudi Matjašič for a renewed emphasis on the peace processes in the area of Nagorno-Karabakh.

The National Council proposes to the Government of the Republic of Slovenia to support the resolutions of the United Nations with the efforts on the peaceful settlement of the Armenian-Azerbaijani conflict over Nagorno-Karabakh.

National Council of the Republic of Slovenia calls for a renewed emphasis on the peace processes in the area of Nagorno-Karabakh under the auspices of the OSCE Minsk Group. The National Council of the Republic of Slovenia supports the efforts of international organizations to establish peace and stability in this region.

The initiative of National Councillor Mr. Rudi Matjašič reads as follows:

“The National Council of the Republic of Slovenia calls for support the resolutions of the United Nations with the efforts on the peace processes in the area of Nagorno-Karabakh under the auspices of the OSCE Minsk Group. In particular the settlement must be based on the four UN Security Council Resolutions (numbers 822 (1993), 853 (1993), 874 (1993) and 884 (1993)). These call for the immediate withdrawal of the armed forces of Armenia from Azerbaijan, and a swift and safe return of internally displaced persons to their homes.

It should be strongly condemned all cases of ethnic cleansing, massacres, mass murder of civilians regardless of where they were committed. In this context, particularly highlight massacre perpetrated by the Armenian armed forces in the Khojaly town of Azerbaijan on 26 February 1992 many of whom are still missing. It is a crime against humanity that must be condemned and to refuse. Adopted resolutions must be strictly followed condemning all similar acts. At the 24th anniversary of this tragedy we expressed sincere condolences to the Azerbaijani people.

On 26 February 2016 will mark 24 years since the massacre in the Azerbaijani town of Khojaly when 613 civilians, including 106 women, 63 children, and 70 elders were killed in a brutal way by Armenian units, while hundreds more went missing. This massacre was reported by a greater number of the world's media. This action is the organization Human Rights Watch / Helsinki declare a violation of the established rules concerning the conduct of Armenian units with the civilian population in war zones. It was a crime against humanity, which was condemned by many governments around the world. This tragic case is a reminder on this how serious bloodshed may come in wars. Reminds the need of greater understanding and tolerance among peoples of the world.

UN General Assembly, European Parliament, Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe and the Organisation for Security and Cooperation in Europe, with its resolutions, support the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Republic of Azerbaijan, including Nagorno-Karabakh. The State of United-States adopted a resolution which draws attention to the tragic events in Azerbaijan and promote greater tolerance and understanding among peoples.

This settlement needs to be based on international law and the territorial integrity of Azerbaijan. In particular the settlement must be based on the four UN Security Council Resolutions (numbers 822, 853, 874 and 884) passed with respect to this conflict. These call for the immediate withdrawal of the armed forces of Armenia from Azerbaijan, and a swift and safe return of Internally Displaced Persons to their homes.

We recommends the Government of the Republic of Slovenia to further support the international efforts for the earliest resolution of the Armenia-Azerbaijan conflict and is committed for tolerance of people around the world."

S K L E P :

Državni svet podpira pobudo državnega svetnika Rudija Matjašiča, mag. posl. ved, in predlaga Vladi Republike Slovenije, da pobudo prouči in nanjo odgovori.

Pobuda državnega svetnika Rudija Matjašiča, mag. posl. ved, se glasi:

Državni svet Republike Slovenije poziva k podpori resolucijam Združenih narodov z namenom okrepitve mirovnih procesov na področju Gorskega Karabaha pod okriljem OVSE Minsk skupine. Rešitev naj temelji predvsem na resolucijah Varnostnega sveta združenih narodov 822 (1993), 853 (1993), 874 (1993) in 884 (1993), s katerimi so predstavniki članic OVSE Minsk skupine pozvali k takojšnjem umiku armenskih oboroženih sil iz Republike Azerbajdžan in hitri ter varni vrnitvi notranje razseljenih oseb na svoje domove.

Obrazložitev:

Obsoditi je treba vse primere etničnega čiščenja, pokolov in genocidov nad neoboroženimi civilisti, ne glede na to, kje so bili storjeni. V tem kontekstu še posebej izpostavljamo pokol v mestu Khojaly v Azerbajdžanu, ko se je 26. februarja 1992 zgodil napad oboroženih armenskih vojaških sil nad civilisti, med katerimi je veliko še pogrešanih. Gre za zločin proti človeštvu, ki ga je treba obsojati in odklanjati. Dosledno je treba spoštovati sprejete resolucije, ki obsojajo vsa podobna dejanja. Ob 24. obletnici te tragedije izražamo azerbajdžanskemu ljudstvu iskreno sožalje.

Dne 26. februarja 2016 bo minilo 24 let od pokola v azerbajdžanskem mestu Khojaly, ko so armenske enote v tem okupiranem mestu na brutalen način ubile 613 neoboroženih civilistov, medtem ko jih na stotine še pogrešajo. O tem pokolu je poročalo večje število svetovnih medijev, to dejanje pa je organizacija Human Rights

Watch/Helsinki razglasila za kršenje ustaljenih pravil, ki zadevajo ravnanje armenskih enot s civilnim prebivalstvom na vojnih območjih. Šlo je za zločin proti človeštvu, ki so ga obsodile številne vlade po svetu. Ta tragičen primer je opomin na to, do kako hudih prelivanj krvi lahko prihaja v vojnah, in opozarja na neprestano potrebo po razumevanju, vzajemni komunikaciji in strpnosti med ljudmi po svetu.

Generalna skupščina OZN, Evropski parlament, Parlamentarna skupščina Sveta Evrope in Organizacija za varnost in sodelovanje v Evropi so s svojimi resolucijami podprli suverenost in ozemeljsko celovitost Republike Azerbajdžan, vključno s Gorskimi Karabahom. Država ZDA je sprejela resolucijo, s katero opozarja na tragični dogodek v Azerbajdžanu in spodbuja k večji strpnosti in razumevanju med ljudmi.

Varnostni svet Združenih narodov poziva k podpori in izvedbi resolucij 822 (1993), 853 (1993), 874 (1993) in 884 (1993), ki pozivajo armenske vojaške enote, da končajo okupacijo azerbajdžanskega ozemlja in pozivajo k mirnemu reševanju spora.

Vlado Republike Slovenije pozivamo, da še naprej tako intenzivno oz. dosledno izvaja ter podpira resolucije in se zavzema za strpnost ljudi po svetu.

Državni svet Republike Slovenije predlaga Vladi Republike Slovenije, da pobudo prouči in v skladu s četrtem odstavkom 98. člena Poslovnika Državnega sveta (Uradni list RS, št. 70/08, 73/09, 101/10, 6/14 in 26/15) nanjo v roku 30 dni odgovori.

Khojaly Massacre

That the Parliament notes that 26 February 2017 will mark the 25th anniversary of the Khojaly massacre, which resulted in the deaths of 613 civilians and was reported to have been committed by Armenian forces during the 1988-94 war between Armenia and Azerbaijan; understands that Armenia continues to occupy 20% of the internationally-recognised territories of Azerbaijan, despite UN Security Council Resolutions 822, 853, 874 and 884, which called for the unconditional, immediate and full withdrawal of its forces; notes what it believes are concerns over war crimes and gross violations of international humanitarian law in the town of Khojaly; expresses its support of the efforts of the international community to bring about a negotiated solution to the Nagorno-Karabakh conflict using the principles of international law, and acknowledges what it sees as the dynamically-developing long-standing community relations between the people of Azerbaijan and Scotland, including the presence of the Scottish expatriate community in Azerbaijan and the Azerbaijani community in Scotland.

ADOPTED ON DECEMBER 8, 2011

FROM THE FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE WITH POINT OF AGREEMENT ON THE ARMENIA-AZERBAIJAN CONFLICT OVER NAGORNO KARABAKH

Honorable Assembly:

A resolution with point of agreement on the conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan was referred for study and subsequent development of opinion to the Foreign Relations Committee which was introduced by Deputy Marcos Pérez Esquer, member of the Parliamentary Group of the National Action Party on September 6 2011.

The Foreign Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Deputies of the Congress, LXI Legislature, based on the provisions of Articles 39 and 45, paragraph 6, subparagraphs e), n and g) of the Organic Law of the General Congress of the United Mexican States, as well as 80, 85, 176 and 182, paragraph 3, of the Rules of the House of Representatives, subjects to consideration of this assembly this determination.

OPINION

Background

1. In late 1987 began the so-called "recent period" of the Armenia-Azerbaijan conflict, which is identified with attacks by Armenians towards Azerbaijan in Khankandi, also known as Stepanakert.

Between 1988 and 1989, constant attacks were raised in which at least 216 Azerbaijanis were killed and 1154 suffered serious injuries, also a mass deportation process originated of approximately 200 000 people.

2. In late 1991 and early 1992, taking advantage of the political instability caused by the dissolution of the Soviet Union the conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan intensified shifting to a military phase which began with combat operations by Armenian forces in Nagorno Karabakh.

3. During the night of 25 to 26 of February, 1992, there was an unprecedented massacre by the Armenian armed forces against the population of Azerbaijan in Khojaly, 613 Azerbaijanis were killed, including 106 women, 63 children and 70 elderly, 1275 people were taken hostage, while the fate of 150 people remains unknown. In addition, 487 residents of Khojaly were maimed, including 76 minors. 26 children were orphaned and 130 lost at least one parent. The attack was fully documented by various agencies of the Republic of Azerbaijan, and numerous independent sources.

After the genocide, the Armenian forces occupied the 7 districts surrounding the Nagorno-Karabakh region, Shusha (administrative center of Azerbaijan); Kalbajar, Aghdam, Fuzuli, Jabrall, Zangilan and Gubadli.

4. On April 30 and July 29, 1993, the Security Council of the United Nations (UN) adopted resolutions numbers 822 and 853, through which:

a) It demanded the immediate cessation of all hostilities, with a view to establishing a lasting ceasefire and the immediate withdrawal of all forces from Aghdam and Kalbajar, and other occupied territories of Azerbaijan;

b) Urged the parties concerned to resume negotiations to resolve the conflict and refrain from any action to obstruct the achievement of a peaceful solution;

c) Requested that free access for international humanitarian relief efforts in the region were allowed to alleviate the suffering of the civilian population, reaffirming that all parties are bound by the principles and norms of international humanitarian law; and

d) Requested the Secretary-General, in consultation with the Acting President of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE) and the Chairman of the Minsk Group of the Conference, assess the situation in the region and present a further report to Council.

On 14 October the same year, the Security Council adopted UN resolution number 874, by which, inter alia:

- d) Requested the early convening of the Minsk Conference of the OSCE to achieve a negotiated settlement;
- e) Called on all parties to refrain from committing any violation of international humanitarian law, reiterating the call to allow access for international humanitarian relief services in the affected areas; and
- f) Urged all states in the region to refrain from any hostile acts and from any interference or intervention which would lead to the escalation of the conflict and undermine peace and security in the region.

FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE

POINTS OF AGREEMENT ON THE ARMENIA-
AZERBAIJAN NAGORNO KARABAKH CONFLICT
ADOPTED ON DECEMBER 8, 2011

On November 11, 1993, through Resolution No. 884, the Security Council of the UN, among other things:

- a) Condemned the violation of the cease-fire established between the parties, which resulted in the resumption of hostilities and occupation of new territories of the Republic of Azerbaijan;
- b) Urged the government of Armenia to ensure that its nationals established in the region of Nagorno-Karabakh comply with resolutions 822, 853 and 874 of the Security Council;
- c) Demanded the interested parties to immediately cease hostilities and the unilateral withdrawal of armed forces from occupied territories in Azerbaijan;
- d) Urged the parties concerned to resume and permanently enforce the cease fire and continue to seek a negotiated settlement;
- e) Called back to the states in the region to refrain from any hostile acts and from any interference or intervention this would lead to the escalation of the conflict and undermine peace and security in the region;
- f) Requested the Secretary-General and relevant international organizations, to provide urgent humanitarian assistance to civilians affected and to assist refugees and displaced persons to return home safely and with dignity.

With these resolutions, the Security Council of the UN reaffirmed the respect of the principles of sovereignty, territorial integrity and inviolability of international borders.

5. The armed conflict in the territories of the Azerbaijan Republic, led to the illegal occupation of almost one fifth of the territory of that state and at least one of every eight people became IDPs or refugees. 20 000 people were killed, 50 000 more were injured or became invalid, and it is estimated that approximately 5 000 are missing.

Economic areas of the country were severely affected; hospitals, homes, apartments, office buildings, auditoriums, schools, factories, irrigation systems, bridges, roads, water pipes and gas, and supply stations were destroyed. The damage inflicted on the Republic of Azerbaijan has been estimated at tens of billions of dollars.

6. Although on May 12, 1994, by decision taken at the OSCE summit in Budapest, a ceasefire was determined, Armenian forces have repeatedly violated the truce, most often beginning in 2003.

Considerations

The conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan is based on the territorial dispute over the Nagorno Karabakh region of Azerbaijan. The result of this dispute has been 30 000 deaths, 20 percent of Azeri territory occupied by Armenia, and one million refugees and IDPs.

Since 1992, both countries hold negotiations on the negotiated settlement within the framework of the Minsk Group of OSCE (Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe). The Security Council of the UN in 1993 adopted four resolutions demanding the immediate withdrawal of Armenian troops from occupied territories and supported the territorial integrity, sovereignty and internationally recognized borders of Azerbaijan. These resolutions have not been fulfilled.

The "roadmap" provides that to resolve the conflict peacefully, the Armenian forces must be withdrawn, according to the timetable set, the entire occupied territories around Nagorno-Karabakh and displaced persons within the territory should be able to return to their land. This plan refers to the deployment of international peacekeeping forces and the implementation of confidence-building measures between the parties.

Mexico has been characterized by championing progressive causes and fight for a fairer international order. The defense of self-determination of peoples, the refuge and asylum, international condemnation of militarism and expansionism, solidarity with developing nations, the active pursuit of peace and the adoption of nuclear weapon-free zones are examples of this. It has argued that respect for international law is a prerequisite for the establishment of aid and cooperation to be effective and fair for the solution of common problems mentioned above.

It must therefore reaffirm its adherence to international law, as formally consecrated in 1988 by incorporating the principles and purposes of the United Nations to our Constitution.

Article 89. The duties and obligations of the President are as follows:

I. ...

X. To direct the foreign policy and international treaties, as well as end, denounce, suspend, modify, amend, and withdraw reservations and formulate interpretative declarations thereon, subject to the approval of the Senate. In conducting such a policy, the Executive Power shall observe the following guiding principles: self-determination of peoples, nonintervention, and the peaceful settlement of disputes, the prohibition of the threat or use of force in international relations; legal equality of states, international cooperation for development, respect, protection and promotion of human rights and the struggle for peace and international security;

These foreign policy principles are regulated by international law and are prior to its annexation to our Constitution in 1988 and should be interpreted in the light of the UN Charter, without exception, these constitutional principles derived from first principles regulated by international law and its legal system is linked to other international standards. Thus the principle of non-intervention is enshrined in the UN Charter, which provides in article 2, Paragraph 7, that: "Nothing in this Charter shall authorize the United Nations to intervene in matters which are essentially within the domestic jurisdiction of states, or shall require the Members to submit such matters to settlement under the present charter, but this principle shall not prejudice the application of enforcement measures under Chapter VII".

Our country has always had a full awareness of the validity of law in the international arena and the need for the relations between states to be governed by a legal order, the source of an atmosphere of peace and security. Has been and is also aware that in all relations of coexistence which by their nature are likely to be regulated by legal principles, the conduct of states should be regulated by law and not guided by circumstantial concepts of a political order.

For the abovementioned reasons and sound arguments the Committee on Foreign Affairs, submits to the floor of the House of Representatives the following:

POINT OF AGREEMENT

First. The Chamber of Deputies of the Congress of the Union condemns the occupation of the Nagorno Karabakh territory of the Republic of Azerbaijan and the deaths, injuries and humiliation caused to residents of the Republic of Azerbaijan, particularly those that took place in the "Genocide of Khojaly" as well as those verified that follow from the violation of the ceasefire pact established between the parties, which resumed hostilities.

Second. Regrets that the conflict between Azerbaijan and Armenia remain, has not found the solution through the different mechanisms implemented by the parties involved and international organizations, so we call to the various involved parties to strengthen the dialogue to solve the conflict, considering it as the adequate mechanism for the exchange of views and proposals that contribute to the strengthening of international relations, and at all time safeguarding the fundamental principles of peaceful coexistence among nations, such as self-determination of peoples, non-intervention, peaceful settlement of disputes, prohibition of the use of force in international relations, the legal equality of states, international cooperation for development and the struggle for peace and international security.

Third. The Chamber of Deputies of the Congress, calls on the holder of the Federal Executive Power so that through our representation in the UN, within their respective competencies, to file a report on the humanitarian crisis prevailing in the Republic of Azerbaijan, also, that based on their powers, allowing effectively protect the human rights of civilians in that country.

Fourth. The Chamber of Deputies of the Congress, within their respective jurisdictions, respectfully requests that the holder of the Federal Executive Power, to instruct the representative of Mexico to the United Nations Organization, to promote the activities it deems appropriate in order to urge the government of the Republic of Armenia to comply with resolutions 822, 853, 874 and 884 of the Security Council and issued by the Council of Europe.

Fifth. It urges the holder of the Federal Executive Power, to the extent of his competence, to present on behalf of the Mexican state to international bodies, an

HONORABLE ASAMBLEA:

A la Comisión de Relaciones Exteriores le fue turnado para su estudio y posterior elaboración de dictamen con Punto de Acuerdo relativo al Conflicto entre Armenia y Azerbaiyán, presentado por el Dip. Marcos Pérez Esquer, integrante del Grupo Parlamentario del Partido Acción Nacional, el 6 de septiembre de 2011.

La Comisión de Relaciones Exteriores de la Cámara de Diputados del Congreso de la Unión, LXI Legislatura, con fundamento en lo dispuesto en los artículos 39 y 45, numeral 6, incisos e), f) y g), de la Ley Orgánica del Congreso General de los Estados Unidos Mexicanos, así como 80, 85, 176 y 182, numeral 3, del Reglamento de la Cámara de Diputados, somete a consideración de esta asamblea el presente dictamen:

DICTAMEN

ANTECEDENTES

1. A finales de 1987, comienza el denominado "periodo reciente" del conflicto Armenia-Azerbaiyán, el cual se identifica con los ataques por parte de los armenios a los azerbaiyanos en Khankandí, también conocido como Stepanakert.

Entre 1988 y 1989, se suscitaron constantes ataques en los que, por lo menos, 216 azerbaiyanos fueron asesinados y mil 154 sufrieron graves heridas; asimismo se originó un proceso de deportación masiva de aproximadamente 200 mil personas.

2. A fines de 1991 y principios de 1992, aprovechando la inestabilidad política ocasionada por la disolución de la Unión Soviética, se intensificó el conflicto entre Armenia y Azerbaiyán al pasar a una fase militar que inició con operaciones de combate por parte de fuerzas armenias en Nagorno-Karabaj.
3. Durante la noche del 25 al 26 de febrero de 1992, tuvo lugar una masacre sin precedentes por parte de fuerzas armadas armenias contra la población de Azerbaiyán en Jodyali; en ella perecieron 613 azerbaiyanos, entre ellos 106 mujeres, 63 niños y 70 ancianos; 1,275 habitantes fueron tomados como rehenes, mientras que el destino de 150 personas aún se desconoce. Además, 487 habitantes de Jodyali fueron mutilados, incluyendo 76 menores de edad. 26 niños quedaron huérfanos y otros 130 perdieron al menos a uno de sus padres. El ataque quedó plenamente documentado por diversos organismos de la República de Azerbaiyán, y numerosas fuentes independientes.

Después del genocidio, las fuerzas armenias ocuparon los 7 distritos circundantes a la región de Nagorno Karabaj: Shushá (centro administrativo de Azerbaiyán); Kalbajar, Aghdám, Fuzulí, Yabráil, Gubadlí y Zangilán.

4. El 30 de abril y el 29 de julio de 1993, el Consejo de Seguridad de la Organización de las Naciones Unidas (ONU) aprobó las Resoluciones números 822 y 853, a través de las cuales:
 - a) Exigió el cese inmediato de todas las hostilidades, con miras a establecer un cese al fuego duradero, así como el retiro inmediato de todas las fuerzas en los territorios de Kalbajar y Agdám, y otras localidades ocupadas de Azerbaiyán;
 - b) Instó a las partes interesadas a reanudar las negociaciones para la solución del conflicto, y abstenerse de cualquier acto que obstaculizara el logro de una solución pacífica;

El 11 de noviembre de 1993, a través de la Resolución número 884, el Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU, entre otros aspectos:

a) Condenó la violación al cese al fuego establecido entre las partes, que tuvo como resultado la reanudación de hostilidades y la ocupación de nuevos territorios de la República de Azerbaiyán;

Con esas resoluciones, el Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU reafirmó los principios de respeto a la soberanía, integridad territorial e inviolabilidad de las fronteras internacionales.

5. El conflicto armado en los territorios de la República de Azerbaiyán, generó la ocupación ilegal de casi un quinto del territorio de ese Estado y que al menos, una de cada ocho personas se convirtieran en desplazados o refugiados. 20 mil personas fueron asesinadas, 50 mil más fueron heridas o quedaron inválidas, y se estima que aproximadamente, 5 mil se encuentran desaparecidos.

Las áreas económicas del país quedaron gravemente afectadas; fueron destruidos hospitales, casas, departamentos, edificios de negocios, auditorios, escuelas, fábricas, sistemas de irrigación, puentes, carreteras, tuberías para abastecimiento de agua y de gas, así como estaciones de suministro. El daño infringido a la República de Azerbaiyán se ha estimado en decenas de miles de millones de dólares.

6. Aunque el 12 de mayo de 1994, mediante acuerdo tomado en la cumbre de la CSCE en Budapest, se determinó el cese al fuego, las fuerzas armenias han violado reiteradamente esa tregua, con mayor frecuencia a partir de 2003.

CONSIDERACIONES

El conflicto entre Armenia y Azerbaiyán se basa en la disputa territorial por el enclave del Alto Nagorno Karabaj de Azerbaiyán. El resultado de esta disputa ha sido de 30.000 muertos, un 20% del territorio ázeri ocupado por Armenia, y un 1,000.000 de refugiados y desplazados internos.

A partir de 1992, ambos países sostienen negociaciones sobre el arreglo negociado del conflicto en el marco del Grupo de Minsk de la OSCE (Organización para la Seguridad y Cooperación en Europa). El Consejo de Seguridad de la ONU aprobó en 1993 cuatro resoluciones que exigían la retirada inmediata de los soldados armenios de los territorios ocupados y apoyaban la integridad territorial, la soberanía y las fronteras internacionalmente reconocidas de Azerbaiyán. Estas resoluciones aún no se han cumplido.

La 'hoja de ruta' establece que, para resolver el conflicto pacíficamente, las fuerzas armenias deben retirarse, según el calendario fijado, de todo el territorio ocupado en torno a Nagorno-Karabaj y que las personas desplazadas dentro del territorio deben poder volver a su tierra. Este plan hace referencia al despliegue de unas fuerzas de paz internacionales y a la aplicación de medidas que generen confianza entre las partes.

México se ha caracterizado por abanderar causas progresistas y pugnar en favor de un orden internacional más justo. La defensa de la autodeterminación de los pueblos, la concesión de refugio y asilo político, la condena internacional del belicismo y del expansionismo, la solidaridad con las naciones en desarrollo, la búsqueda activa de la paz y la aprobación de zonas libres de armas nucleares son ejemplos de ello. Ha sostenido que el respeto al derecho internacional es una condición indispensable para el establecimiento de relaciones solidarias y cooperativas que sean eficaces y justas para la solución de los problemas comunes antes mencionados.

Debe por tanto reiterar su apego a la legalidad internacional, como lo consagró formalmente en 1988 al incorporar los propósitos y principios de las Naciones Unidas a nuestra Constitución.

Artículo 89. Las facultades y obligaciones del Presidente, son las siguientes:

I.

X. Dirigir la política exterior y celebrar tratados internacionales, así como terminar, denunciar, suspender, modificar, enmendar, retirar reservas y formular declaraciones interpretativas sobre los mismos, sometiéndolos a la aprobación del Senado. En la conducción de tal política, el titular del Poder Ejecutivo observará los siguientes principios normativos: la autodeterminación de los pueblos; la no intervención; la solución pacífica de controversias; la proscripción de la amenaza o el uso de la fuerza en las relaciones internacionales; la igualdad jurídica de los Estados; la cooperación internacional para el desarrollo; el respeto, la protección y promoción de los derechos humanos y la lucha por la paz y la seguridad internacionales;

Estos principios de política exterior se hallan regulados por el derecho internacional y son anteriores a su incorporación a nuestra Constitución en 1988 y deben ser interpretados a la luz de la Carta de la ONU; sin excepción, tales principios constitucionales proceden de principios regulados en primera instancia por el derecho internacional, y su régimen jurídico está vinculado al de otras normas internacionales. Así el principio de no intervención está consagrado en la Carta de las Naciones Unidas, la cual dispone en su artículo 2do., párrafo 7, que: "Ninguna de las disposiciones de esta Carta autorizará a las Naciones Unidas a intervenir en asuntos que son esencialmente de la jurisdicción interna de los Estados, ni obligará a los miembros a someter dichos asuntos a procedimientos de arreglo conforme a la presente Carta, pero este principio no se opone a la aplicación de medidas coercitivas prescritas en el Capítulo VII".

To: The Participants of Khojaly Remembrance Day

GREETINGS:

As you gather to commemorate the Khojaly tragedy, I wish to express my own sympathies for the senseless loss of life that transpired 23 years ago. On behalf of the State of Georgia, I join you in mourning their loss.

On February 25, 1992, Azerbaijan experienced a brutal massacre resulting in the death of over 600 civilians. Events like this are important to remember, and the lives lost in this tragedy should be honored as we strive to ensure that similar acts of horrendous violence do not happen again. I hope that the Azerbaijani community continues to educate Georgians and others about this day in our past that can teach us much in the present.

I commend all those who had a hand in organizing this event. May we never allow such a tragedy to stain the pages of our history again.

Sincerely,

Be it known to all that We, the Members of the Senate and House of Representatives, join in recognizing the 20th Anniversary of the Khojaly Massacre in Azerbaijan,

February 26, 2012. It was 20 years ago when Armenian armed forces, with the support of the armored vehicles of the Russian 366th motorized rifle regiment, attacked and occupied the besieged town of Khojaly, as part of the armed aggression and ethnic cleansing that had been taking place in that region of Azerbaijan. When residents of Khojaly attempted to flee the conflict, they were ambushed and fired on by the Armenian and Russian troops, resulting in the massacre of 613 civilians and permanent injuries to a thousand others. We join the United States Department of State in supporting the sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Republic of Azerbaijan and we commemorate this important date to honor the lives and memories of those who died and suffered.

And be it ordered that the official expression of sentiment be sent forthwith on behalf of the 125th Legislature and the people of the State of Maine.

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR
STATE OF MONTANA

Steve Bullock
GOVERNOR

Mike Cooney
LT. GOVERNOR

February 17, 2016

Dear Friends:

As Governor of the great state of Montana, it is with a solemn heart that I urge all Montanans to recognize February 26th as "Khojaly Remembrance Day," a day of remembrance for the lives lost in Khojaly, Azerbaijan in 1992. Azerbaijanis living in Montana and around the globe observe this day every year to honor the lives lost on that day.

The events in Khojaly are a sobering reminder of the damage that can be inflicted in wartime and serve as an enduring reminder of the need for greater understanding, communication, and tolerance among people all over the world.

As Montanans, we join with our Azerbaijani brothers and sisters in Montana to remember this day while also seeking to find understanding that surpasses the violence so often associated with conflict.

I encourage Montanans to acknowledge February 26, 2016 as "Khojaly Remembrance Day."

Sincerely,

“On February 26, 1992, Armenian troops descended on the town of Khojaly, located in the Nagorno-Karabakh region of Azerbaijan. During their advance, Armenian armed forces massacred over 600 unarmed people, including 106 women and 83 children, and left less than 2,000 survivors. Hundreds more became disabled due to their horrific injuries. More than one hundred children lost a parent and 25 children lost both parents. At least 8 families were completely killed.

I urge my colleagues to recognize the sacrifices of the Azerbaijani people in their steps toward a free market economy and democracy, and to work together to facilitate peace in the Azerbaijan – Armenia conflict.”

Remark during the 115th Congress
February 26, 2018

“On February 26, twenty-six years ago in the city of Khojaly where several thousand ethnic Azerbaijani people were trapped in a blockade by Armenian troops seeking to lay claim to the Nagorno-Karabakh region. Citizens of the city were told that they may escape if they left immediately but regardless, hundreds of innocent citizens, including women, children, and the elderly, were brutally murdered or taken prisoner on that day. This was the largest massacre as part of a conflict that is still ongoing.

These were terrible crimes against humanity which we must never forget, and I urge my colleagues to commemorate them on this day.”

“On February 25 and 26, 1992, twenty-five years ago, the Armenian military forces occupied the town of Khojaly and destroyed hundreds of innocent lives. Those that weren’t killed were wounded or taken hostage while their city was under siege.

The aggression and occupation by Armenian forces has been condemned by the United Nations Security Council.

More than two decades have passed since those horrific events and little attention has been paid to those killed during the attacks and the struggles of displaced person.

According to Human Rights Watch and other international observers the massacre was committed by Armenian troops, reportedly with the help of the former Soviet 366th Motor Rifle Regiment. Human Rights Watch described the Khojaly Massacre as “the largest massacre to date in the conflict” over Nagorno-Karabakh.

The tragedy of Khojaly was a war crime which cannot be ignored.

Let’s stand with the people of Azerbaijan as they commemorate this tragedy and urge world leaders to help bring a peaceful solution to the occupation of these lands.”

“I rise today to honor all those lost in the Khojaly Massacre. On February 25, 1992, a little more than 25 years ago, over 600 people were brutally murdered in Khojaly, Azerbaijan. These were mostly elderly men, women, and children – innocent victims that should have never been part of such a heartbreaking tragedy. It is essential that we take the time every year to remember those who lost their lives during this horrific event in Azerbaijan. Their unwilling sacrifice continues to serve as a reminder to hold fast to the principles of democracy.”

“This week marks the 24th anniversary of the massacre of hundreds of people in the town of Khojaly in what was the largest killing of ethnic Azerbaijani civilians in the course of the Armenia-Azerbaijan conflict. Khojaly, which is located in the Nagorno-Karabakh region of Azerbaijan, was once home to 7,000 people. However, on February 26, 1992, Armenian armed forces descended on the town in a final attempt to take over the city. In doing so, they massacred over 600 unarmed people—including 106 women and 83 children—and left less than 2,000 survivors. Hundreds more became disabled due to their horrific injuries. More than one hundred children lost a parent and 25 children lost both parents. At least 8 families were completely obliterated.”

Message of the Secretary General of the Turkic Council on the occasion of commemoration of Khojaly Genocide

25 February 2020

Over the night from 25 to 26 February 1992, an unprecedented massacre was committed by the Armenian armed forces against the Azerbaijani civilians of Khojaly town in the Nagorno-Karabakh region of the Republic of Azerbaijan. This tragedy, which is one of the bloodiest crimes in the history of mankind, became to be known as the Khojaly genocide, involved the extermination or capture of the thousands of Azerbaijanis.

As a result of the brutal atrocities, 613 people were killed, including 106 women, 63 children and 70 elderly and 487 people were crippled. Moreover, 1,275 innocent people were taken hostage, and the fate of 150 people remains unknown. Civilians were shot at close range, scalped, and burned alive. The elderly, children and women who were captured were subjected to unprecedented torture, abuse and humiliation.

As the Turkic Council, we commiserate deeply with our Azerbaijani brothers and sisters over this violent attack and massacre, which they suffered exactly 28 years ago today in Khojaly, and wholeheartedly share their pain. We also stand hand in hand with the Government of Azerbaijan in their world-wide “Justice for Khojaly” International Awareness Campaign and show the necessary sensitivity to this fact.

With these feelings, we commemorate the martyrs who lost their lives in Khojaly with deep respect and convey our condolences to the Government and people of Azerbaijan.
